City Head Dives

PA NEW OBSERVES

Shocking of corn is under way in some of the fields in this area. Pa Newc is told.

Apparently one of the North Hill squirrels made an expedition downtown on Sunday. One was noted frisking about on Mercer street near the intersection of Washington street.

Work is in progress on dismantling the old Dana homestead on North Jefferson street, near Grant, to make way for erection of the new city building on the site. The new city structure will probably be erected near spring.

On next Sunday morning at 2:00 o'clock, daylight savings time will end in the nation for the winter. Most New Castle and Lawrence County residents will adjust the clocks before retiring Saturday night. In Youngstown when the clocks are changed it will mark the permanent end of daylight saving time observance, action having been taken not to reestablish it next spring. In Cleveland daylight time was not observed this summer.

An unusual occurrence was reported from the Lewis Sewall farm in No. 8 district, Mercer county, just north of the Lawrence County line on Sunday. A couple hundred wild ducks settled down in a clover field on the farm to feed on the clover, according to reports from that district. It was an unusual sight, as wild ducks had never been seen in such a performance in this section previously.

Route 18 from the Farrell turn-off north of West Middlesex, to the Sharon-Mercer road, is detoured, Pa Newc has discovered. The new highway connection that will extend from the Farrell crossing to Hermitage on the Mercer-Sharon road is being built. This will give a direct route on Highway 18, will cut traversing along of the Mercer-Sharon road, as formerly required.

With very little fanfare, autumn officially bowed into the picture this morning at 11:41 o'clock, according to Pa Newc's calendar. Many farmers of the area were glad to see the day arrive, for with it came much needed rain that is necessary to fill the depleted wells of the area. Pa Newc noted that during the night the rain brought down many leaves to the street making it necessary for motorists to travel extra cautiously.

The new by-pass of Route 422, down Taylor street and over Grove to Mill is proving an even better traffic aid than was anticipated. Hundreds of cars used the by-pass over the week-end and aided considerably in easing the bottleneck on East Washington street. If through truck traffic used the by-pass more the traffic congestion would be further eased.

Pittsburgh Is Again Waiting Hour Of Strike

Power Strike Again Set—This Time Call Is For 9:30 A. M. Tuesday

JUDGES CONSIDER LEGAL SITUATION

(INS) — Pittsburgh residents today were confronted with their fourth possible power crisis in eight months as three commonpleas court judges prepared to unravel one of the knottiest legal problems in the city's annals.

Members of the Duquesne Light company's independent union were ordered to strike at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow—the exact hour the judges will open a hearing on a controversial injunction which halted union members from striking against the city.

Terming the injunction a "mere scrap of paper", Union President George L. Mueller ordered his 3500 members to walk off their jobs and attend the hearing which will decide whether the court order is valid and whether or not it will be made permanent.

The new crisis reached its climax last Friday evening when union members voted 3 to 1 against accepting a company proposal to arbitrate the deadlocked contract differences.

Mayor Calls Conference

Meanwhile Mayor David L. Lawrence called a conference of the mayors of three affected adjacent communities—Clariton, McKeesport and Duquesne—leading city and county officials and the editors of three Pittsburgh newspapers to discuss the situation.

Open Probe Of Plane Crash

Eighteen Survivors Removed From Scene Of Disaster In Newfoundland

DEATH TOLL OF CRASH NOW 26

GANDER, Newfoundland, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Belgian Sabena airline officials today opened an investigation of the trans-Atlantic plane crash that killed 26 persons when the ship tripped on the tree-tops of the Newfoundland forest, tore down spruce for 100 yards, and then burst into flames.

Funerals Planned

The victims were being buried in a military graveyard at the scene by a second rescue party. Protestant and Catholic ministers will fly over the scene tomorrow or Wednesday to conduct funeral services from the air.

The risk of accidents was regarded as too great to attempt recovery of the 26 bodies.

Along with the survivors, the coast guard brought out the members of the first rescue team. They reached the wreckage Thursday afternoon, set up a temporary camp and cared for the injured survivors until they were removed by the slow, but precise helicopters.

The helicopters used a few wooden planks in the mud as a "landing field".

Although two persons died of injuries after surviving the crash, the rescue team saved all those still alive when it arrived. All the survivors praised the doctor of the group, Capt. Samuel Martin of Durham, N. C., for his assistance.

Russia Makes New Charges

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Russia today charged the United States and Great Britain with putting their own political interests ahead of the repatriation of Europe's one million refugees.

The charge was made by Nicolai Peonov to the economic and social council.

Peonov said the council had failed utterly to solve the problem of displaced persons because the United States and Great Britain "see danger to their own interests in collaboration."

Harriman Selection For Commerce Head Is Surprise Action

By ROBERT G. NIXON (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—President Truman brought his foreign policy cabinet crisis to swift climax today with the surprise appointment of U. S. ambassador to London W. Averell Harriman as secretary of commerce.

The announcement came with startling suddenness from the White House shortly after 6 o'clock Sunday night.

Mr. Harriman had spent the weekend with a group of close advisers aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg.

Two trans-Atlantic telephone calls were made by the president Saturday and Sunday to Harriman to clinch his acceptance.

Former Moscow Ambassador

Harriman, former ambassador to Moscow and a top flight expert of the department during Roosevelt's first two terms.

He said they were "carrying on the high principles laid down by Roosevelt."

There, he continued, "lies the road to peace."

Calls News Conference

Harriman called a news conference soon after returning to London from the country. Newspapermen of a number of nations had pleaded with him for a statement. He said:

"I welcome the opportunity to join President Truman's cabinet as secretary of commerce. I know the department well as I was an active member of the advisory committee of the department during Roosevelt's first two terms.

"During the past six years, in representing Roosevelt and Truman on various missions overseas, I have had an opportunity to learn first-hand the policies of the United States government."

Charge Veteran With Slaying Of Wife By Stabbing

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—(INS)—An overseas veteran was arrested today — charged with the fatal stabbing of his pretty blonde wife while two policemen and a watchman tried to separate them.

The victim was identified by police as Mrs. May Hannon Brock, 28, wife of ex-Army Lieutenant Howard Brock, 29.

Police said he had been looking for his wife since last Easter, when he returned to this country and found strangers living in his home.

He saw her on busy North Broad street in the pre-dawn darkness this morning, he reportedly said. They had a long talk, he told authorities, and agreed to a reconciliation, but at her rooming house, Brock said she told him they were "through."

Chased Into Street

Brock told police he chased her into the street, where he felled the screaming woman with a flying tackle.

A private night watchman, George Rightly, hearing Mrs. Brock's screams, fired three shots into the air, but failed to separate them. Two policemen, hearing the shots, finally separated the couple.

The policemen said Brock was grasping a seven-inch combat stiletto.

Mrs. Brock was rushed to Temple University hospital. Where she was pronounced dead of four stab wounds in the chest and other lacerations and bruises.

Successor To Harriman Is Now Considered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The White House said today that U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman will return to Washington "reasonably soon" to take over his new cabinet duties as secretary of commerce succeeding Henry A. Wallace.

President Truman, who wound up his cabinet crisis with the surprise designation of Harriman, returned to his desk today. The chief executive immediately began consideration of a successor to Harriman at the court of St. James.

Wallace likewise returned to his office in the Commerce department this morning and, declining to talk for publication, busied himself cleaning out his files and bidding goodbye to his staff.

Austria Should Be Returned To Austrian People

So Declares Gen. Mark Clark During Visit Being Made To Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Gen. Mark W. Clark today declared that Austria should be returned to the Austrians and that all occupation troops should be evacuated.

The famed American general, who also is high commissioner of Austria and head of the American occupation forces in that sector, reported Austria has a "fairly democratic" government now and that he felt it would remain so, providing the people were allowed to run their own affairs.

The former commander of the Fifth Army in Italy admitted it was "very difficult" to get along with the Russians, adding:

"The principal difficulty in Austria is a clash of interests with the Soviets on reparations."

"The Soviets have seized all types of property, including farm land and factories. In over a year they have taken everything and have prostrated Austria in the Soviet zone."

"All my efforts to discuss this with the Soviet commander have failed. He just won't discuss it."

He explained that under the Potsdam agreement Russia was to get all external German assets in eastern Austria.

Clark pointed out, however, that the taking of farm lands has helped create a critical food situation in Austria.

At the same time he renewed his plea for a large, long-term U. S. (Continued on Page Ten)

Kaiser Declares He Saved Half Billion For U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—West Coast Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser told the House merchant marine committee today that he saved the government upwards of a half-billion dollars on war contracts.

Kaiser charged also that the Defense Plant Corporation discriminated against his Fontana Steel Plant project in favor of U. S. Steel's Geneva, Utah, plant.

Kaiser, awaiting his turn to testify, placed before the committee which today opened a probe of wartime shipbuilders' profits a report setting forth his wartime activities.

The report said his profitable shipbuilding companies brought his family profits totaling three million 983 thousand dollars in dividends before taxes.

Kaiser complained, however, that the committee failed to ask about losses in unprofitable companies in its query.

He said that Kaiser Co., Inc., operating three shipyards and the Fontana steel plant had a net loss of eighteen and one-half million dollars.

The west coast industrialist in his statement prepared in question-and-answer form denied that he "made millions of dollars by using only one hundred thousand dollars of private funds."

AUTO FIRE

Four fire companies were called into action by an alarm from Box 515 Sunday afternoon when gasoline leaking from the carburetor of a car owned by D. R. Williams of 310 Pine street caught fire, near the vicinity of Friendship street and Cunningham avenue. No damage resulted and no action was required of firemen, Chief James E. Thomas stated.

A false alarm was answered from Box 44 at 11 p. m. Sunday.

Formal Appeals On Price Controls Being Prepared

Restaurant And Beef Industries Reveal Plans To Make Demand For Removal

ROLLBACK ORDER STRONGLY OPPOSED

By CHARLES B. SEIB (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The restaurant and beef industries today revealed definite plans for formal appeals against continued price controls in their respective fields.

A Washington spokesman for the National Restaurant Association said the public feeding business, through its OPA advisory committee, plans to file a petition with the OPA on Thursday asking withdrawal of all controls.

At the same time a meat industry representative said the national beef advisory committee will file a petition with the secretary of agriculture for the removal of beef ceilings on October 8.

Wave of Protest

The restaurant men's decision has been foreshadowed by a nationwide wave of protest over last week's OPA order rolling prices of meat dishes back to the old freeze level of April 4-10, 1943.

As soon as the order came out, the industry launched a determined battle to have it revoked or softened, declaring that compliance was impossible.

The national organization freely predicted widespread non-compliance and even offered to help any restaurateur taken to court for not obeying the order.

The industry replied to OPA charges that it had refused to reveal its earnings with the declaration that it had shown large increases in costs and that was all the OPA needed to know to make a cost-plus-normal-margin price adjustment.

Conflicting Efforts

The industry spokesman explained the seemingly conflicting efforts to obtain both revision of a single order and revocation of all OPA controls this way:

Thousands In Guam Homeless After Typhoon

GUAM, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Rear Adm. C. A. Pownall, governor of the Marianas, left on an emergency flight for Washington today, carrying with him details of the havoc wrought by the typhoon which lashed Guam and other areas.

First reports from Saipan, where ten thousand Americans are stationed, indicated a hundred-mile-an-hour typhoon left damage estimated at a half-million dollars.

The typhoon reached a velocity of 125 miles an hour at Rota island, populated by 800 natives. The wind literally pulled vegetation from the ground.

Thousands Homeless

At Guam, where thousands were left homeless, damage was estimated at million dollars.

No deaths were reported among personnel of the Twentieth Airforce on Guam, where airfields, warehouses and private residences were demolished. At northwest field 110 officers and 650 enlisted men of the 20th Airforce were left homeless. The winds, which reached a velocity of 125 miles per hour at the field, wrecked 20 PBV air-sea rescue planes.

Davies Ridicules Report He Will Be New Ambassador

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Moscow, today ridiculed a report from Washington that he might succeed W. Averell Harriman as ambassador to London.

Davies declared:

"It has absolutely no truth... My doctor would not allow me to accept such a strenuous job."

Davies explained that his health is not especially good and that he came to London primarily to attend the annual pilgrimage to Wales.

REPORT MUTINOUS CREW

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Great Britain rushed military police and armed troops to Southampton today to await the arrival of the troopship Dunnotar Castle with 35 reportedly mutinous crew-members under arrest.

The vessel is carrying the families of 900 British servicemen from abroad.

Eisenhower Sails For Europe Today

HALIFAX, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, U. S. army chief of staff, was enroute to Europe today aboard the Queen Mary for an inspection tour of American army installations. The British liner sailed from Halifax because of the recent maritime strike in New York.

Firmer Diplomatic Policy Far East Need

By REP. ROBERT L. F. SIKES (D) Florida

(Written Exclusively for U. S. S.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—A six weeks inspection trip to Pacific areas and the Far East has convinced me that the United States must adopt a firmer diplomatic and military policy there or run the risk of involvement in a third world war.

The seeds of another war have already been sown on the fertile lands of China and Korea, and in both countries the United States stands squarely in the middle of the ideological struggle between democracy and communism.

As in Europe, Russian aspirations in the Orient are the key to war or peace. It is increasingly apparent that the United States has lost "face" in the Orient in the year since V-J day, and that firmer political and military policies must be established in order to counteract the USSR's expansionist moves. I do not despair for world peace. On the contrary, I firmly believe that if the United States uses the (Continued on Page Two)

Youngstown To Permanently End Daylight Time

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 23.—War-time-fostered Daylight Saving Time sings its swan song in Youngstown next Sunday when clocks will be turned back one hour to return the city and its environs to Eastern Standard Time.

Official time for moving clocks back is 2 a. m. Sunday, Sept. 29.

Council sounded the death knell for daylight time several months ago when it passed an ordinance placing the city on Eastern Standard Time the year around, effective Jan. 1, 1947.

Decision to make Eastern Standard Time a permanent fixture followed heated debate over the merits of "fast time." An attempt was made by Councilman Harry H. Jacobs to return the city to Eastern Standard Time this year, but it was blocked in council.

Public interest in the time issue reached its peak in the spring but dropped off to such an extent by mid-summer that no one petitioned for a referendum after council passed an ordinance returning the city to Eastern Standard Time on a year around basis.

The old ordinance which placed Youngstown on "fast time" from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September was enacted during the war to save electricity and provide additional daylight hours for "victory gardeners."

FREAK PLANE ACCIDENT

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Wilson Yera, 22, of San Francisco, was recovering today from a freak airplane accident which cost him four fingers of his left hand.

Yera was rushed to an Oakland hospital yesterday from the nearby Hayward, Cal., airport after he inadvertently put his hand in the path of a plane's propeller.

Yera had just alighted from the plane and was waving to the pilot, Lesnes R. Katz, 26, when the accident occurred.

Maritime Labor Peace On West Coast Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The long-awaited maritime labor peace on the Pacific coast failed to materialize today despite settlement of the major pay scale strike.

San Francisco harbor was ready to spring into action after more than two weeks of idleness but Los Angeles was tied up by a new jurisdictional union dispute.

Some ships at Portland, Ore., still were pocketed by the independent Marine Firemen's union, which was awaiting further information on adjustment of wages before returning to work.

Big Four Meeting Will Be Asked By Byrnes And Bevin

Seek Session As Means Of Speeding Up Action At Paris Peace Parley

MANY ISSUES ARE IMPEDING ACTION

(BULLETIN)

PARIS, Sept. 23.—(INS)—U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes conferred this afternoon with Premier-President Georges Bidault of France regarding an early Big Four meeting designed to speed the work of the lagging Paris peace conference.

Earlier, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin met with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov on the same subject.

Since France is the host nation, any call for a Big Four conference would have to come from Bidault.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—(INS)—United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin were revealed today to have decided to issue a joint request for the immediate summing of a Big Four meeting to consider means of speeding up the Paris peace conference.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—British Foreign Secretary Bevin conferred today with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in a move apparently aimed at Big Four settlement of the chief issues impeding progress of the peace conference.

Bevin and U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes then scheduled appointments with French Premier-Foreign Minister Bidault, who would be responsible—as leader of the host nation—for calling a session of the council of foreign ministers.

British circles indicated Bevin already may have discussed the difficult Trieste problem in his conference with Molotov.

May "Gag" Long Speeches

Bevin and Byrnes discussed two methods Saturday for speeding up the conference. The first would be a "gag" on lengthy speeches and the second advance circulation of all statements in three languages. These developments came while

Badly Decomposed Body Of Patrolman Sodel Found In California

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23.—(INS)—A nation-wide alarm was sounded today for the arrest of Albert Anthony Adams, 26, suspected slayer of State Highway Patrolman Steve W. Sodel.

Sodel's body was found yesterday by three boys in a shallow grave atop a knoll in Baldwin hills. The body, lying face up, had been hastily covered with dirt and corrugated box paper.

Adams, a former inmate of Riker's Island Reformatory, New York, and AWOL from Army's Camp Rucker, Ala., since 1944, has been tentatively identified as the driver of a stolen car which Sodel halted for questioning.

If there's one thing that I like, it's a place of well-eyed pike that's been baked just right and seasoned down with care with some basting here and there, just to see that it is done but did not burn. As I take a deep inhale and my nostrils I regulate with that odor that will make a fellow drool, I can hardly wait to bite on that trencherman's delight, I'm impatient as I wait for it to cool. There's a dish fit for a king, and of well-eyed pike I sing, I could stand another portion, so I do, it's a meal that stands alone, so my praises I intone, and the weather stands a misty eighty-two.

Mercer Street North Of Euclid Is Not In City

City Solicitor White Makes Report
On Street To Council At Monday Session

Following agitation for the paving of North Mercer street between Sheridan and Englewood avenues, Solicitor Robert M. White, on Monday morning informed council at a meeting in city hall that, while none of Mercer street beyond a point between Euclid avenue and Sheridan avenue is within city boundaries, it should be. Until the solicitor made a study of the territory from records dating back to 1906 and his report today, it had been common belief that one side of North Mercer street to the city line was within city limits and the other side, within the township of Neshannock. He said that the nearest city line in one place, is about five feet and becomes as wide as 29 feet distant. However he pointed out to council that some years ago the city installed sewers in the thoroughfare, as was the city's right and said that possibly not only annexation proceeds to take in North Mercer street, but also Cascade Park, should be launched. A year ago a move looking toward annexation of the park was started but not carried through. North Mercer street is a clear shot north and if improved and annexed by the city would provide another good route.

cuss the safety and welfare of the 150,000 residents who live in the 817-square mile area that will be "blacked out" by the threatened strike.

At the same time it was learned that the three judges—Walter P. Smart, Thomas H. Rowand and William H. McNaughton—who will sit en banc at tomorrow's hearing planned a conference for today to consider all phases of the current situation. The possibility that union officials may have committed contempt of court was considered as one of the "phases" the judges might discuss.

Labor Conciliators Arrive
Amidst all the confusion, Leo T. Crowley, president of the Standard Gas & Electric Co., of New York parent organization of the Duquesne light firm, arrived in Pittsburgh last night to participate in any further negotiation meetings the union officials might call.

Also two labor conciliators from Washington stepped into the picture in an attempt to effect a last-minute truce or settlement. Sources close to Pittsburgh's labor movement said that both the APL and the CIO will back the independent union's battle against the alleged "anti-strike" injunction.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh railway officials report that thousands of workers might have to remain at home tomorrow because it will be necessary to remove all street cars to the barns at 7 a. m.—if the strike takes place.

FIRMER DIPLOMATIC POLICY FAR EAST NEED

full measure of her diplomatic and economic power, the opposing forces in the Orient can be reconciled and world peace secured.

China Sore Spot

The number one sore spot in the Orient is, of course, China, where the Nationalist government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is vying for power with the Chinese Communist armed political party. Geo. George C. Marshall, as President Truman's special emissary, has worked long and valiantly to bring the armed struggle of the two opposing political parties to an end, and to lay the groundwork for a peaceful, united China.

He has been hampered in this mission, not only by delays interposed by both parties in negotiations, but by partially substantiated charges that the Russians are secretly aiding the Chinese Communists with arms, munitions and supplies.

Perhaps the most far-reaching step the United States could take toward permanent peace at this time would be to secure from Russia a firm pledge that no further military aid should be rendered to the Chinese Communists. In return, the United States government should agree to cease any further aid to the Chinese Nationalist government that could be construed as military in character.

With this agreement as an axis, I believe that Gen. Marshall could successfully negotiate a political settlement in China, incorporating his plan to greatly reduce the size of the Chinese army to be composed of Nationalist and Communist forces.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. Ella Mae Griner Markley

Following an illness of one month, Ella Mae Griner Markley died at home, 1213 Albert street, Saturday night, September 21, at 11:45 o'clock. Death resulted from a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Markley was born in New Castle January 19, 1896, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Griner. She attended the New Castle schools and later studied music. For a number of years Mrs. Markley was active in music circles and did considerable church and concert work as a soprano soloist.

As a young woman she was employed by the Pennsylvania railroad but later entered the service of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania in Harrisburg. She was in Harrisburg for about ten years. In 1938 she was married to LeRoy Markley.

She was a member of the First Methodist church, Order of Eastern Star 104 and Martha Shrine 14. She is survived by her husband, her mother, Mrs. Carrie B. Campbell Griner and by several cousins. Her father preceded her in death in 1931.

Friends may call at the Fred C. Wolford funeral home at 215 East North street this afternoon from 3 to 5 and tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon, September 24, from the funeral home at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Burr S. McKnight, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Mrs. Edna Karns
Mrs. Edna Karns, aged 69 years, died this morning at 1 o'clock in the hospital at Cambridge, O., where she was confined as a patient for one week.

Mrs. Karns, daughter of the late James and Mary Grace McCutcheon, was born December 2, 1876, in Grove City.

Survivors include one son, James G. Karns of the Rice apartments, East North street, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Grace Dotterer, R. D. Kenedale, Pa., and Mrs. Fred L. Porter, Hollywood, Calif.; two brothers, Fred McCutcheon, Warren, Pa., and Dr. Charles McCutcheon, Des Moines, Ia., a grandson, Wayne Karns, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Fred C. Wolford funeral home, 215 East North street, with Dr. G. S. Bennett officiating. Interment will take place in Grove City.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Alice Lutz Canfield, aged 38 years, wife of Waldo Canfield, of 709 Cleveland avenue, Canton, O., died at her home Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock following an illness of two years' duration.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lutz of Wampum, who survive.

Survivors in addition to her husband and parents include two brothers, James and Daniel Lutz, both of Wampum, and three stepchildren, Mrs. Wilma Stoter, Canton, O., Vernon and Kale Canfield, both at home.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Marshall funeral home, Wampum.

Interment will take place in Clinton cemetery.

Friends will be received at the funeral home Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

James A. Brandon
James A. Brandon, aged 74 years, of 648 South Ray street died in the New Castle hospital Saturday at 10 p. m., following an illness of three months.

He was born in Lawrence county August 9, 1872, son of Robert W. and Martha Frew Brandon. Mr. Brandon was a retired carpenter and was a member of the Third U. P. church. His wife, Emma Morrow Brandon, died in 1916. He was a member of Modern Woodmen of America and carpenters' union.

BIG FOUR MEETING WILL BE ASKED BY BYRNES AND BIVIN

White Russian delegates accused Greece of planning to expand at the expense of Bulgaria and Egypt and Ethiopia entered claims for Italian colonial territory.

The charge against Greece came up in the military commission. In the Italian political and territorial commission the Egyptian representative asked for Massawa, parts of Eritrea, the Sollum Plateau, the Khartoum Oasis as well as independence for Libya. He also wanted Libya made eligible for membership in the Arab league.

The Ethiopian delegate requested Ethiopian sovereignty over Eritrea.

New Meeting Imminent

Sessions of the various conference committees got under way amid indications that a new meeting of the foreign ministers of the Big Four to speed up parley deliberations is imminent.

The military commission split right down the middle over a Greek proposal to demilitarize the Bulgarian frontier. The United States supports Greece and the Soviet bloc of nations supported Bulgaria.

The American delegation offered moderately with the Greeks over assertions that the border already was militarized but supported the thesis that Greece should be permitted to construct fortifications in the future.

The delegates of White Russia lengthily and warmly rebutted the Greek stand. One spokesman declared: "Such fortifications never existed in Bulgaria and there has been no intention to establish them."

Plea By Bonomi

The plea that Italy be permitted to hold trusteeship over her former colonies was made by former Premier Ivanoe Bonomi.

He said: "It must be clearly understood that (the Italy) is not asking for return of the colonies but for the honor and responsibility of assisting the population of these regions to independence and complete independence."

On the Greek-Bulgarian issue, Britain and France lined up with Greece in supporting an amendment prohibiting new military construction within 12 and one-half miles of the Bulgarian side of the frontier.

The suggestion of a new meeting of the foreign ministers arose as an imminent probability in an effort to speed conclusion of the peace conference by the October 5 deadline.

There are only a few more days left until the deadline which will allow chief delegates of the various nations to wind up their business, pack their bags and be on hand for the opening of the United Nations general assembly in New York on Oct. 23.

under the rollback order. Something must be done at once. On the other hand, we recognize that the steps toward complete decontrol may take a little time. Our fight on the rollback is for emergency action now.

The beef industry's petition for decontrol must be delayed until next month because of a ruling which requires that the matter be on the national committee's agenda for two weeks before any action is taken. The committee will place the proposed petition on its agenda at a meeting this Wednesday and take action two weeks from that date.

Both industries are basing their appeals on the arguments that price controls have failed in their purpose, creating confusion and artificial shortages and economic turmoil. They contend securities will be much faster in a free market than under controls and that competition will keep prices at reasonable levels.

Interment was in Neshannock cemetery New Wilmington.

White Russian delegates accused Greece of planning to expand at the expense of Bulgaria and Egypt and Ethiopia entered claims for Italian colonial territory.

The charge against Greece came up in the military commission. In the Italian political and territorial commission the Egyptian representative asked for Massawa, parts of Eritrea, the Sollum Plateau, the Khartoum Oasis as well as independence for Libya. He also wanted Libya made eligible for membership in the Arab league.

The Ethiopian delegate requested Ethiopian sovereignty over Eritrea.

New Meeting Imminent

Sessions of the various conference committees got under way amid indications that a new meeting of the foreign ministers of the Big Four to speed up parley deliberations is imminent.

The military commission split right down the middle over a Greek proposal to demilitarize the Bulgarian frontier. The United States supports Greece and the Soviet bloc of nations supported Bulgaria.

The American delegation offered moderately with the Greeks over assertions that the border already was militarized but supported the thesis that Greece should be permitted to construct fortifications in the future.

The delegates of White Russia lengthily and warmly rebutted the Greek stand. One spokesman declared: "Such fortifications never existed in Bulgaria and there has been no intention to establish them."

Russia, has been at the Paris peace conference as an adviser to Secretary of State Byrnes.

He is one of the originators of the "get tough with Russia" strategy and a strong supporter of the administration's foreign policy.

Wallace remained in seclusion at his apartment over the week-end, taking no telephone calls. Through Bruce Catton, an aide, he said: "Mr. Harriman's appointment will be accepted with the greatest enthusiasm by the business community."

The presidential selection was viewed in Washington as having a double-barreled aim. One was to heal the domestic political wounds caused by possible alienation of the liberal leftwing faction of the Democratic party, which Wallace heads.

Backing For Byrnes

The other was to put the strongest possible backing behind Byrnes' handling of foreign policy in Paris. There was speculation that the appointment may have been urged by Byrnes.

Mr. Truman chose a man with a rare combination of talent and backbone to put in his cabinet in the hope of achieving those two ends.

The 54-year-old multimillionaire envoy was one of the early New Dealers and an ardent supporter of the late President Roosevelt. He was one of the first of the "big business" group to back the New Deal.

Generalissimo Stalin is reputed to have told the late president that Hopkins and Harriman were among the few Americans he could talk to with understanding.

Roosevelt sent Harriman to Moscow as ambassador in October, 1943. Harriman attended with Roosevelt every major war conference including Casablanca, Cairo, Tehran and Yalta. He was at Potsdam with President Truman a year ago as adviser on Russia.

Harriman was extremely popular in Moscow. He saw friendship between the two countries reach its

Unione Calabro Elects Officers

Unione Calabro of America held their election of officers Sunday at 3 p. m., for the year 1946-47.

They are: President, Joseph Lombardo; first vice president, Colombo Clauso; second vice president, Rose Retort; orator, Frank Gillett; corresponding secretary in Italian, Frank Datillo, and in English, Angelina Lombardo; financial secretary, Louis O'Kuzo; treasurer, Frank Ross; trustees head, John Fuleno; trustees, Anthony Lombardo, Joe Bleszo, Katherine Gillett and Frank Lombardo.

Expand Production

Harriman said that development of a stable and expanding economy at home was highly important for the role of the U. S. in world reconstruction. He added: "An expanding peace-time productivity in the United States, which would be available for the needs of our people and export as well as essential as a sound foundation for prosperity and happiness at home and for our ability—in cooperation with other nations—to offer a continuing helpful hand to the peoples of the world."

"That's an essential base for the lasting peace that all people crave."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Allen, of Winter avenue, and Mrs. Anna Pyle, of Croton avenue, spent the week-end with the latter's sister, Mrs. David D. Reid, and family, of Brookville, Pa.

WEDDING SATURDAY IN HARBISON CHAPEL

Two graduates of Grove City college, Miss Martha Vogan, daughter of Mrs. Alice Vogan of Market street, Mercer, and Joseph Sankey

Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Johnston of Northview avenue, New Castle, were united in marriage at a single ring ceremony solemnized in Harbison chapel, Grove City college, Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Dr. Addison Leitch, formerly dean of men at Grove City college, now a professor at Xenia Theological seminary, Pittsburgh, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Capt. William R. Vogan, of Fayetteville, N. C., wore a wedding gown of white satin, entrain, with a fingertip veil, and carried a shower cluster of white gladiolas.

Mrs. William Wiese, as her sister's matron of honor, wore blue net accented in pink. Miss Earla Vogan, another sister, as maid of honor, wore pink net accented by blue.

Miss Nancy Johnston, sister of the groom, and Mrs. James Laughren of Butler, bridesmaids, wore poudre blue lace and net gowns. All carried pink roses.

Robert Garraway Johnston was his brother's best man, and ushers were Carl W. Keefer, Jr., Thomas

Martin of Butler and Adley W. Hemphill of Pittsburgh.

Nuptial music with C. Seiple, college organist, at the organ, included three solos, "Lord's Prayer," "Because," and "O Promise Me," sung by Miss Frances Bamford of Midway.

Following the ceremony there was a reception for 70 guests at the home of the bride's mother in Mercer.

The newlyweds left on a short wedding trip after which they will take up residence at 3306 Bradford road, Cleveland, where the bridegroom is affiliated with the American Steel and Wire company.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnston took leading parts in campus activities at Grove City college. Mrs. Johnston was college May queen in 1944.

The event will take place from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock in the parsonage, 510 Haus avenue, with the official board of the church in charge of arrangements.

An invitation has been extended to friends, present members and former members of Croton church.

BATES-SCHRAMM WEDDING SATURDAY

An afternoon ceremony united in marriage Miss Grace E. Bates, daughter of Mrs. Emily H. Bates,

802 Park avenue, Ellwood City, and Eugene A. Schramm, New Brighton

R. D. 1 on Saturday at the manse of the North Sewickley Presbyterian church.

Nuptial vows were exchanged at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Robert E. Bell officiating.

The bride wore a white wool dress with navy accessories and a corsage of white roses. For "something old" she wore a gold bracelet with a heart-shaped lock.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hart of Beaver Falls attended the couple. Mrs. Hart wore a teal blue wool dress with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a chicken dinner was served at a tea room on the Butler road.

In the evening the couple departed for a short wedding trip. They will live in their new home, New Brighton R. D. 1, after it is completed.

The bridegroom, a graduate of the Zellenople high school, is employed by the National Plumbing Fixture Corp.

The bride, employed by the National Tube company, is a graduate of Lincoln high school, Ellwood City.

CHRISTINA GIANCOTTI WEDS FRED WELKER

A quiet and impressive wedding was solemnized Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Trinity Episcopal church, uniting in marriage Miss Christina Giamcotti, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Giamcotti, of 831 Croton avenue, New Castle, and Fred E. Welker, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Welker, 207 Harbor street.

Before an altar embanked with chrysanthemums and ferns, vows were exchanged at the candlelight ceremony by the young couple, with Rev. Robert M. C. Griswold, rector, officiating, using the double ring ceremony.

A large assembly witnessed the ceremony, and preceding the ceremony a recital of organ music was played by Miss Isabelle Johnson.

Given in marriage by her brother, Vincent Giamcotti, the bride was charming in a white lace gown with sweetheart neckline, buttoned bodice, and long sleeves, fashioned en-train. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls, and she wore a strand of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white baby mums, chrysanthemums, and stephanotis.

Miss Velma Dart, as maid of honor, wore a dusty pink sharkskin gown, with peter pan collar, buttoned bodice and full skirt. Pink pompoms and orchids adorned the hat, and small matching satin muffs. She wore long matching mitts.

Russell Earl Welker served his brother as best man.

A brief congratulatory period was held at the church. In the evening, a reception for 300 was held at The Castleton. A buffet lunch was served to the guests, and appropriate solo music was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Welker departed on a motor trip to Cleveland, and upon their return will reside on Croton avenue.

Mrs. Welker was graduated from New Castle high school June '42, and was the popular drum major-ette of the high school band and the American Legion band for three years. Mr. Welker is a discharged Marine, having served for five years in the service. He is now a salesman for the Welker's greenhouse.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fuleno, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCree, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Loccasiano, Mr. and Mrs. Dom Loccasiano, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Loccasiano, of Ellwood City, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Douglas, of New Jersey.

On The Move Here, Too

When one thinks of mass movements of population, one naturally thinks of Europe, where war and forced migrations resulted in the shifting of millions of persons from their homes and from their native countries. One rarely thinks of the great population shift which has been taking place in this country. Yet, Americans have been moving about in large numbers. And the Census Bureau says conditions indicate the continuance of a large nomadic population for some time to come.

The bureau notes that the "vast human upheaval" caused when the Nazis uprooted and moved 10,000,000 people in Europe is drafted by a shift which has been taking place, "unheralded and with relative ease," within the borders of the United States. In three years of migration, it adds, one-fifth of the country's total population moved away from home—a combined exodus of military personnel and civilians amounting to more than 27,000,000 persons.

Census Director J. C. Capt. says that never before in the history of America has there been so great a shuffling and redistribution of its population in so short a time. The principal migratory drifts have been from South to North and from North to West. The bureau says if the birth rate in the South continues to be high, the stream of migrants will continue to be South to North and North to West by the hundreds of thousands each year. Of course, that is expression of an editorial opinion on the part of the bureau.

If travel is good for people, as educators, who are forever suggesting interchange of students with other nations, seem to believe, Americans have benefited greatly during the war years. Many a person who would never have traveled outside his own state moved to an entirely different section of the country. The Army, as is well known, gave its men ample opportunity for travel. They saw America first and then much of the world. But the economic pull of war plants had its effect on civilians, too, and millions of them moved from one area to another in this country.

Fire Threatens You

As part of its intensified fire prevention efforts in 1946—an intensification made necessary by the fact that fire loss is now at record levels—the National Board of Fire Underwriters is distributing an enormous number of pamphlets and posters pointing to the menace of fire, and showing ways in which fire can be prevented.

These publications go to fire insurance agents, adjusters, fire chiefs, fire prevention organizations, parent-teachers clubs and similar groups and are displayed and redistributed through them. Every American, unless he is a hermit in the hills, will have a chance to read them. And every American, if he is to do his part to control a destroyer which takes 10,000 lives a year, should give them his strict attention.

This year, Fire Prevention Week, which has been an annual event since it was first initiated by President Wilson, is to be observed from October 6 to 12. During that week, everything humanly possible will be done to dramatize the vital cause of fire prevention. But a week of such work isn't enough—it's only a starting point. The experts can show you the dangers and the means of ridding your home and business of them. Then it's up to you. Make every week fire prevention week so far as your property is concerned.

Smoked Out

More good than harm has been done by the latest disagreement to crop up between Russia and the United States—the dispute between Molotov and Byrnes over Poland's western boundary. Mr. Byrnes was correct when he pointed out in his Stuttgart speech that no final decision had been made at Potsdam on Polish claims to Silesia.

But the red delegate pointed out that the German-Polish border along the Oder-Neisse line is a "fait accompli" which remains only to be formally recognized at the peace conference. The permanence of the tentative boundary was assured, to all intents and purposes, when the Big Four agreed to allow the Poles to evacuate the German population from Silesia. When this had been done the die was cast and the border had become as firmly fixed as any borders ever are.

There was no practical possibility that the peace conference would order the return to Germany of territory in which the Poles were firmly established.

Secretary Byrnes knew this when he made his speech. But by saying what he did he has shrewdly managed to smoke the Russians out and ruin a little game which Molotov had been playing. The Soviet foreign minister has been hinting to the Germans that their only hope of regaining the territory lost in the East was to join hands with the Russians. He has been dangling the veiled promise that a communist Germany and a communist Russia might eventually undertake another partition of Poland which would restore the Reich to its former power and glory.

It will not be easy for the red to get away with this now and that he is on record with the flat statement that "the western frontier of Poland cannot be reversed." Secretary Byrnes has turned a nice piece of diplomacy and he has every reason to be satisfied with the result.

OPA wants meat purchasers to ask what it is, what grade, what is the ceiling price and how much does it weigh. But while going through this crazy rigamarole, the housewife might forget to ask, Where is it?

Scientists, who do not believe in letting bad enough alone, are going to the stratosphere in search of mesons, a ray much more powerful than the atom bomb.

That plague of winged aphids which has been bothering Brooklyn which has been bothering Brooklyn which has been bothering Brooklyn it may be a St. Louis plot. It will be noted the tiny insects didn't show up until after the Cardinals left town.

The aphids are really platties—which is an inelegant name that better let no Flatbush resident hear you use out loud.

The plant life—aphids—even invaded Ebbets Field, which heretofore has been the sole habitat of only bugs of the baseball variety.

The aphids flourish mostly on the foliage of large plants which may serve the Brooklynites right for being so inordinately proud of having a tree.

All the Brooklyn winged aphids are males, a fact distinguishing them from the Broadway moths that haunt the bright lights of the not-so-far-away Great White Way.

It's the fervent hope of penaminded Dodger fans that the aphids aren't really just early birds seeking good seats for the World Series.

Where the aphids came from even the experts at the Brooklyn Botanic Gardens couldn't say. However, Dodger followers were certain they were foreigners for the little green bugs seemed to ignore the uniforms and to concentrate on the Flatbush Flock and their rooters.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

"Humans Never Learn From Experience?"
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The pessimist shakes his head gloomily and says that human beings never learn from experience. We seem to have been working overtime during the past year to prove the pessimist right.

After World War I, a brief boom carried spiraling prices above today's price levels. The collapse that followed brought tragic consequences for everyone, but particularly for agriculture, which never really recovered after the bubble of the speculative boom blew up. Then came the fleeting six years of the Republican bull market, which ended in the most widespread economic ruin this country has ever known.

Many people try to make the word "planning" into a scare word, tied to regimentation and the loss of our most cherished freedoms. If we had done a little more planning at the beginning of World War II, and a little more when it ended, we might have avoided the economic snarl in which we now find ourselves.

Planning was sacrificed to political pressures when the Roosevelt administration made no real effort to hold down wartime wages and profits. It was sacrificed when the Republican-Southern-Democratic coalition in congress destroyed any hope of effective price control.

We have only to look around us now every day to see the consequences of our failure. We ought to look and look hard. If we look, perhaps we can learn.

It is not alone the obvious and more alarming consequences. They hardly need to be pointed out. For example, in our competition with Soviet Russia to convince the world that our system is the best, it is hardly an advantage to produce an economic tangle that sets all the elements of our society warring, one with another. That tends to prove the Soviets' smug belief that capitalism is finished and will inevitably break down.

Ominous Strikers
Th ominous strikes that develop as prices and wages see-saw upward need no underscoring. The labor conflict owes something to left-wing political aims. But the price dislocation is in itself almost enough to explain the present warfare and the battles that are likely to come.

In far less obvious ways, the dynamic of the inflationary-deflationary cycle works to undermine order and progress.

Take the business of education. Every college in the country is filling up to the doors and overflowing with students, many of them mature men and women eager to gain something real from their education. Yet, at the same time, every college is having a desperate time finding enough instructors. Young men with families can hardly afford to remain in teaching, because the salary scale is so low. Others who might accept modest fellowships or research stipends are driven to seek paying jobs. Thus the very serious damage done to education and science because of the policy of selective service during the war will not be repaired.

Works Farm
It is in the reconstruction of 12,000,000 veterans that the economic snarl works in a thousand ways to do harm. The growing quarrel over abuses in the on-the-job training program originates largely in the price rise which has wiped out much of the benefit congress intended to confer in the GI bill of rights.

Numerous letters have come to me from veterans protesting some of the comments in this space on the new law restricting training benefits in such a way that a man who has served in the armed forces could not receive more than $200 a month and an unmarried veteran $175, this including supplementary salary and benefits. Almost without exception, they complain of the injustice of coming home to find men who had stayed behind earning higher salaries and in better positions.

We can if we pleasantly blunder into an uncertain future, weld these 12,000,000 into a relentless pressure group, determined to right economic injustices by compelling the government to give and give and give.

New Demands
At the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Boston, some of the heroes who had been awarded the congressional medal appeared with an organization to demand support for a law that would pay them $200 or $300 a month for life. They will carry the same kind of demand to the coming American Legion convention. This is a tragic and shocking example of what can happen if we permit veterans generally to be convinced that the only way to get a fair deal is to tap the treasury.

When conflicts and tensions harden in such a way that it appears impossible to solve them under our system, then belief in democracy is undermined. Only through reasonable, moderate planning, looking toward the solution of our most vexatious problems, will we be able to keep the liberties we prize.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

In the sixteenth verse of the first chapter of the Book of Ruth it is written:

"And Ruth said, Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge."

In Baltimore a judge decided that a woman whose husband decides to abandon his comfortable city home for life on a farm without modern conveniences has no grounds for divorce.

The judge dismissed the divorce suit filed by Mrs. Jeanne L. Dresch and granted an absolute divorce to her husband, Christian A. Dresch, who had made up his mind to give up commercial life and bought a farm in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Dresch gave as her cause for the divorce complaint that she just couldn't stand that Wisconsin farm house because it had no central heating, no running water, no electricity, and because the work of a farm wife was completely foreign to her.

The husband filed a counter suit in which he said that she simply walked out and did not give him time to make their farm home more modern and more comfortable.

In the days of Ruth, there was no running water, no central heating, no electricity in Israel or anywhere else.

It was a little easier then for a woman to go "whither thou goest" and to lodge "where thou lodgest."

I know that a lot of people will condemn Mrs. Dresch for walking out on her husband and heartily approved the decision of the judge.

I personally would have to know much more about the circumstances of the case and particularly whether or not Mr. Dresch consulted his wife before going out on the farm and whether the move was by mutual consent or a one-sided choice.

There has been quite a bit of discussion at a recent church convention over the question whether or not a woman should be given a place as one of the deacons.

Such a thing has never happened before and many of those present thought it should not happen now.

Why not? Will we men ever drop that silly conceit that women are not our equals?

We men who depended so much on our mothers for every single thing we needed when we were children?

Did not our mothers give us everything we know about decency and honor and kindness and all that is good in the human being?

The world would be far better off if more women sat in the council of War, which is glorious to many men, is abhorrent to all women.

Sentiment, which man considers a weakness, is woman's strength. "Whither thou goest, I will go." Might it not be better to have the man say that than the woman?

Some Sidelights On "The Pepper Boom"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. CONCERNING the special endorsement recently given Senators Mead, of New York, and Guffey, of Pennsylvania, as "perfect Senators," inquiries have come from various quarters as to why the CIO did not include in its latest honor list the names of Senators Murray, of Montana, and Claude Pepper, of Florida.

THEIR voting records, from the CIO angle, have been just as perfect as the Messrs. Mead and Guffey. Also, their advocacy of CIO-favored proposals and their opposition to proposals (such as the Case bill) which the CIO libeled vicious have been even more effective. Equally servile, they are more vocal, energetic and generally competent. The answer, of course, is that the Messrs. Mead and Guffey are up for election this year and the Messrs. Murray and Pepper are not.

ONLY those of its faithful servants whom it thinks need its aid are given special endorsement this year. The Messrs. Mead and Guffey obviously need help; the Messrs. Murray and Pepper obviously do not. The latter do not, perhaps, appreciate how lucky they are, but they quite understand that they have not been slighted; that they stand just as well in CIO favor as the Messrs. Mead and Guffey—perhaps a little higher, as they fight more dashingly, make more noise, talk more loudly about their "liberalism."

AT any rate, Senator Pepper though not a candidate this year, is not entirely inactive in his own behalf. With characteristic modesty he has let it be known that, while he expects Mr. Truman to be nominated in 1948 for the presidency, though he would prefer Mr. Wallace, that he, Pepper, is available for either the presidential or the vice presidential nomination—would gladly take either. Recently he acquired some publicity by speaking with Mr. Wallace on the night that gentleman made his famous New York speech, in which, before a largely CIO audience, he assailed American foreign policy. The Pepper speech differed from the Wallace speech only in being more violently anti-American and pro-Russian.

WHILE it is true the Pepper announcement of his 1948 aspirations attracted little attention, got no response, except from labor leaders, and hardly anyone, except Senator Pepper himself, seems to think he really is "available" for such high offices, it is interesting in that it shows the extraordinary lack of proportion and balance which the CIO manages to inculcate in its own leaders and those who play politics with them. They get almost wholly out of focus not only about issues but about themselves.

TAKE Senator Pepper, for instance. Some of his senatorial colleagues laughed at his "announcement," others were irritated by what they call his "insufferable effrontery"—and other things. But neither the laughter nor the irritation affects Senator Pepper at all. He is an insensitive man, as shown by various incidents of his senatorial career. It is not easy to offend him. However, not until he became closely affiliated with the CIO politicians did he begin to take himself with such great solemnity. Partly this is due to the CIO publicity which regularly drenches him with praise, partly to frequent reference to him in the radical New York press as a "great liberal statesman," partly to his recent visit abroad, where he saw both Marshal Stalin and Marshal Tito, and came home to make extravagantly eulogistic speeches about both, the general idea sought to be conveyed being that they not only are two noble fellows but very close friends of Senator Pepper.

THIS combination has been just too much for him. One of his colleagues says it has caused him to "blow his top." Actually, of course, Senator Pepper is not one of the first-grade senators. Nor is he highly regarded by those of the first grade. He has no record of senatorial achievement, has performed no outstanding public service, made no contribution to the national life. His prominence—such as it is—is wholly due to the enthusiasm with which he has espoused the CIO proposals and has identified himself with what the CIO leaders call the "liberal movement." That is really all there is to Mr. Pepper. Nevertheless, here he is seriously proposing himself for President or Vice President—whichever he can get. And he has become the loudest critic of American foreign policy, the most ardent defender of the Russian position and the leading advocate of the abolition of party lines in the interests of his brand of "liberalism."

CHARGED by Representative Lea (D., Cal.), chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, with proposing a class war in this country, Senator Pepper counters by shouting "the reactionaries must go" and "something must be done for labor." He does not appear to mind being called a demagogue, and is impervious to denunciation. Things have been said about him and to him that would disturb any normal man. They do not disturb Mr. Pepper at all. He seems to welcome any kind of publicity. Apparently, the one thing he dreads is being ignored.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

COMMON FAULTS OF POOR SPELLER

Any child with normal vision and hearing who succeeds at reading or arithmetic can also learn to spell.

If your child is a poor speller, first of all have his vision and hearing checked.

Nearly every poor speller has one or all the following faults: He doesn't, as he studies the word, connect it and its meaning with its letters in their proper order. He is in a great hurry and wants to go off half-cocked. He doesn't look at the word and its letters in sequence carefully, even while studying it. He will try himself out before he has learned it with certainty, often therefore practicing on it wrong.

Takes a Chance

When he writes he will take a chance at spelling any word even when he feels sure it is being spelled incorrectly. He lacks the attitude of carefulness and precision. He hardly has a good spelling conscience. Perhaps he supposes he will never learn to spell, being encouraged, alas, in this belief, no doubt, by his parents and an occasional teacher.

Good spelling consists chiefly in memorizing by rote the right letter sequence of a word in connection with the sight, sound and meaning of this word. It is best acquired by correct, frequent repetition of these associations. The main problem is to help the child avoid any wrong associations and to make the right one always and often enough to fix them permanently.

A good speller spells without thinking, as a rule. The word just spells itself. He does not have to be on guard. If there is an error almost surely there has been an error or many errors before.

Help Him Learn

Find out if your child can give the name of each letter of the alphabet when he sees it. Help him learn without shame or fear of rebuke those letters he does not know without confusion. First, practice him on spelling simple words of one syllable, which sound alike as fat, mat, pat, cat, rat—enough to make sure he gets the "h" of such words.

Also, practice him on words with "blends" as with cl in cloth, clip, cliff. If he has serious spelling troubles, confine his practice for some while to words of one syllable, no matter what his school assignment is. When he begins to study words with more than one syllable, show him how to spell them by syllables.

If your child is a poor speller, try to persuade him to learn to spell only three or four words an evening now, no matter how long his school assignment. Always it is much better to master a few words than to mess over many.

As you help your child with his spelling, be poised, calm and serene yourself, speaking in gentle tones, so the child also might be serene while working.

Rejoice in his successes. Forbid yourself even to feel angry at his failure. The moment you feel the least bit tense or excited go away. You are not fit then to be in his presence, lest you be a stumbling-block to his learning to spell. My bulletins, "Home Helps for Poor Spellers" and "Parents and the Child's Homework" may each be had in a stamped envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.

AT REST

"At Rest" is a common epitaph to put on a grave stone. Perhaps if the occupant of the grave had taken more rest he would have lived longer.

Rest and sleep are necessary for good health.

Work and recreation are good. Games and vacations are helpful if they are not too strenuous.

After hard work there should be enough rest to remove all tiredness.

If a person is tired after a good night's rest there is probably something wrong. The tired feeling may be due to faulty diet, disease or worry. Eight hours rest is pretty good. Better take it now than under a tomb stone.

AUTUMN ANNUALS

Robed in gold and crimson gay,
Now the old plants slip away.
Done, their labors of the year,
Death or seeming death, draws Near.

Soon will come the touch of frost,
When we'll think of them as lost.
Did they struggle all in vain?
Brave the wind and hail and rain
To no purpose? Were they doomed
To oblivion when they'd bloomed?
Or, from sleep will they arise
Under next year's springtime skies?

Purple, every human aid,
As we watch them age and fade,
Soon the killing winds will blow,
Followed by the soothing snow,
But the seeded earth will be
Rich with bloom eternally.

The World and the Mud Puddles

THOSE SLAV STATES

Except in the matter of reparations, which appear moderate according to modern standards, the tentative settlements with the Axis satellite nations announced at Paris can hardly be called a "soft" peace. All of the smaller enemy nations, under these terms, will be reduced to military impotence. Italy is to be limited to a merely nominal navy, without submarines, and a total armed force of about two hundred fifty thousand. Romania is allowed an army of one hundred twenty thousand, Finland thirty-four thousand, Bulgaria fifty-five thousand and Hungary sixty-five thousand. These figures represent roughly about one-tenth of the forces previously maintained. All are drastically limited in air equipment and personnel. So far as any military threat against the Allied nations is concerned, the proposed restrictions would effectively remove it.

One effect of this arrangement, however, would be to give Russia military control of the Balkans, as Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia were not Axis satellites, no limitations are imposed on them. Consequently, they would remain the outstanding military powers in the Balkans. Yugoslavia would even have a strong preponderance over Italy, Czechoslovakia was the first nation to make a treaty of friendship with the Soviets and has elected a Communist government. Yugoslavia under Tito has a puppet government openly dominated by Russia. With these two satellites permitted unrestricted armaments, Russian dominance in the Balkans would not likely be questioned.

This, of course, could work for stability, as the Balkans have long been a hotbed of trouble. On the other hand, it could further the Soviet plans for a Mediterranean adventure and open up new sources of contention. As in other vital matters, everything would depend on Russia's good intentions and the sincerity of her desire for peace. The conference doubtless will consider these angles.

Dodds' Address Brings Reaction

Discussion Evoked By Publication Of Part Of Controller's Address

OTHER NEWS OF COURT HOUSE

Since publication of a portion of the address of County Controller Andrew M. Dodds at the controllers' convention in Pittsburgh, a few local people seem to have interpreted the idea of the four mill tax improperly. The act quoted by Mr. Dodds says nothing about a new tax, it merely quotes the provision which provides that assessors must deliver a tax report blank to each taxpayer in the district.

Some criticism is made of the four mill personal property tax on the grounds that where a stock is not paying dividends the taxpayer should not pay taxes upon it. The same argument could be applied to real estate. The fact that a house may be empty, or is returning rents that net a loss to the owner at the end of the year is no reason why realty taxes should not be collected. In the case of the realty owner who does not pay his taxes the county confiscates the property. There is no such provision for the holder of stocks, bonds or mortgages.

Real estate can be seen by all and cannot escape taxation. Stocks and bonds can sometimes be concealed although the commissioners can assess a 50 per cent penalty where it is found the owner is not reporting them.

Every dollar collected on stocks, bonds or mortgages is a dollar that will not be assessed against real estate upon which the taxes are already high. There is no tax on Pennsylvania securities and a number of other stocks are exempted from the four mill tax because the tax is paid at source. But there appears no good reason why the four mill tax should not be assessed against securities which fall in the classification of taxable values.

To Conduct Course For Executioners

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The Daily Herald said today that Albert Pierpoint, Britain's top-hatted hangman, would conduct a course in Vienna for Austrian executioners. The newspaper reported that British authorities in Vienna refused to turn over eight Polish youths convicted for murder to Austrian hangmen, because they were considered "unscientific and brutal". It was said Pierpoint will hang two of the Poles daily before his class of Austrians. Then he will give a two-week course of advanced instruction.

WOMAN'S ALERTNESS SAVES HER CHILDREN IN PITTSBURGH FIRE

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The quick-thinking on the part of a young mother was credited today with saving the lives of her two youngsters in a fire which destroyed two small homes and a garage in nearby Robinson township. Police reported that Mrs. John Rigg, who was working in her kitchen, noticed smoke and rushed upstairs and picked up her two-months-old daughter, Rosalind, and her two-year-old son, Guy, and managed to pass them out a window to neighbors.

Firemen managed to bring the fire, which caused an estimated $11,000 damage, under control, but not until it spread to a vacated adjoining house and a nearby garage.

NICKERSON-IRVING EVENT IN CHICAGO

Miss Jeanie Nickerson, daughter of Mrs. William H. Sanner, III, of Lakewood, and George E. Nickerson, of 712 North Cedar street, and John Leslie Irving, son of Mrs. William B. Smith, 1107 Glenwood avenue, Youngstown, O., were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howell W. Kitchell, Sr., at Evanston, Ill., Monday evening, September 16.

Lovely arrangements of gladioli, lighted candles, ferns and palms banked the fireplace where Rev. J. C. Wynn, minister of the First Presbyterian church of Evanston, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore an ensemble of blue velvet with matching accessories, and carried red roses and white gladioli.

She was attended by Mrs. Howell W. Kitchell, Jr., who wore an ensemble of rose velvet and a corsage of white gladioli. Mr. Kitchell, Jr., served the groom as best man.

Preceding the ceremony, Howell W. Kitchell, Sr., played softly, "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

After a congratulatory period, a supper was served.

The newlyweds left on a honeymoon and on their return will live at 1448 Neil avenue, Columbus, O., where Mr. Irving will enroll at Ohio State university. A graduate of South High school, Youngstown, he was discharged in February from service as a technical sergeant after serving three years, including duty in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

Mrs. Irving attended New Castle Senior High school and has been employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone company in Youngstown, O. Others from Chicago who attended the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. William Ira Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Coy and Master Abbot Kitchell.

BOTTLE SHORTAGE PEIPING — (INS) — Because of a dire shortage of nursing bottles babies cared for by Chinese National workers are spoon fed and within a few weeks have to learn to drink from ordinary cups.

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell Do you get up in the mornings still tired, fed-down and out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often weakens down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of play red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your dr. store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Plan Enrollment Of 50,000 Students In A.A.F. Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Maj. Gen. Earle F. Partridge disclosed today army air force plans for enrollment next year of 50,000 students at colleges throughout the nation in the AAF's reserve officers training corps program.

Partridge, assistant chief of air staff for operations and training, made this disclosure in announcing that the broad AAF ROTC program would get underway this fall at 76 colleges and universities in 43 states and the District of Columbia.

The general asserted that the program "is designed to provide the atomic age air force with a steady flow of college-trained officers."

In pointing out that this fall facilities will be available at the educational institutions for 16,200 air ROTC students, Partridge said:

"We anticipate in 1947 participation by 50,000 students at 150 colleges."

The final meeting of the year will be held October 18 at the Grange hall. A special invitation has been extended to parents and friends to attend.

Dear Quota Members: Tuesday evening we meet for sewing at Miss Mary Clarke's home, 308 Boyles avenue.

British Troops Disperse Crowd

Demonstration At Haifa Is Broken Up—Warning
Shots Fired Into Air

JERUSALEM, Sept. 23.—(INS)—British troops fired shots of warning into the air today to disperse several thousand persons who gathered in threatening mood at Haifa today.

The demonstrators congregated in front of the district commissioner's office to protest the seizure by British authorities of another shipload of illegal immigrants intercepted off the coast of Palestine.

The secret radio of the underground Irgun Zvai Leumi organization threatened to "fight Britain in Palestine and all over the world."

The broadcast by the illegal "voice of fighting Zion" attacked "all Jews who will consent to negotiate with Britain and accept responsibility for administering the proposed Jewish sector of a federated Palestine."

The announced said emphatically that "the war will not end with creation of such a sector."

The announcement followed action by British blockade forces which prevented a shipload of between 800 and 900 illegal Jewish immigrants from landing in the Holy Land.

In the battle which resulted from British determination to board the unauthorized vessel one Jew was killed and several Jews and Britons were injured.

New Shakeup In WAA May Develop

House Surplus Property Investigating Committee Launching New Probe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The house surplus property investigating committee today launched public hearings that may result in a new shakeup in the War Assets Administration.

Committee aides indicated that the house group, headed by Rep. Slaughter (D-Mo.), was not completely satisfied with the action taken by Lieut. Gen. Robert M. Littlejohn, war assets administrator, in revamping the electronics disposal division.

High Wise, committee counsel, declared that some of the officials who "played favorites" in the disposal of valuable radio radar and telephonic communications equipment were still holding responsible positions.

At stake is the disposal of three billion dollars in surplus electronics equipment which the committee feels has been "sloppily handled" so far.

Littlejohn, who took over his post only recently, advised the committee ten days ago that he was reorganizing the War Assets Administration and hoped to complete the task in 90 days.

Deputy Administrator Frank R. Creedon, now in charge of the office of general distribution, faced a severe grilling at the hands of the committee. Creedon, stated as the first witness, was described by Wise as the man who was "ultimately responsible for the sale of electronics," under former Administrator E. B. Gregory, who preceded Littlejohn.

Sale in this city is sponsored by the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society.

Two Are Killed In Grade Crossing Crash In Newark

NEWARK, Del., Sept. 23.—(INS)—An accidental death ruling was handed down today in the fatal train accident which took the lives of Michael Decobage, Sr., 40 and his son, Michael, Jr., 18, both of Harrisburg, Pa., in Newark, Saturday night.

Deputy Coroner C. Everett Kelley, said the father and son, both cement finishers, had been working for a Wilmington contracting firm near Easton, Md., and were on their way by automobile to Harrisburg when they stopped at a Pennsylvania railroad crossing in Newark to let a south-bound freight pass.

After the freight passed, Kelley said, the two drove into the path of a north-bound express and were carried 1100 yards up the track. They died instantly and the car was demolished.

Salvation Army Has Rally Day

Conducted by Lt. Cathryn Goudy with the assistance of young people of the local corps, the Salvation Army's Rally Day service was held Sunday evening in the headquarters on Jefferson street.

Three junior soldiers were enrolled during the service—Helen Wilson, Bobbie Wilson, and Walter Wilson. The Corps Cadets were also officially commissioned.

Reading Y.M.C.A. For Winter Season

Workmen are busy cleaning the gymnasium and boys' departments of the Y. M. C. A. in preparation for the winter season which opens October 5.

On that date the regular athletic program will go into effect with the men's classes getting under way two days later, October 7.

Saturday, Sept. 28, there will be a camp reunion in the association building at which time awards earned through the summer camping season will be presented the boys. Registration is now open and it is a case of "first come, first served" as only 100 boys can be accommodated at the dinner program.

Swimming schedule is still in effect at the "Y." David Gatrall, director, said today.

ARTHUR CLYDE, JR.
DIES AT MORGANTOWN

Word has been received in this city of the sudden death Sunday of Arthur H. Clyde Jr., son of A. H. and Lilly Edie Clyde of Morgantown, W. Va., at Morgantown.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde are well known here and have a number of relatives in New Castle.

Details on the death have not been received, nor announcement concerning the funeral arrangements.

First Aid Treatment For "Sick Corners" Is Highway Safety Need

Street and highway intersections having high accident rates are "sick corners" and call for first treatment by civic authorities who are planning effective safety measures for their communities, according to Henry K. Evans, well-known traffic engineer of the National Conservation Bureau, accident prevention division of the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives.

A community need not have a big budget to eliminate these dangerous locations," Mr. Evans says. "In most cases comparatively simple and inexpensive engineering treatment will produce rapid and surprising results. Obviously, the places to begin engineering treatment are the locations where accidents are most frequent."

The effectiveness of traffic engineering methods is borne out in 72 recent case histories of accident elimination compiled and published by the National Conservation Bureau. These "before" and "after" examples show that traffic engineering does get results. In 10 of them accidents are reduced by 100 per cent, while others ranged from 75 per cent upwards in effectiveness.

Engineering Treatment Cures
An outstanding case where engineering treatment cured a notoriously "sick corner" was that of 57th street and South Shore Drive in Chicago, says Mr. Evans. At that point five roadways meet and cross. In a single year it was the scene of 31 accidents, eight of them involving injuries to persons. Motorists, upon reaching the vast plaza effect caused by the meeting of the multiple roadways, literally "wandered around" looking for the right outlet. An "island" was built in the middle of the plaza as a guide to motorists. In the year following completion of the improvement there were only four accidents and not one involved personal injury.

Another example cited by Mr. Evans is the intersection of New Jersey's route 25 and Lawrence street in Rahway, a spot similar to many Pennsylvania ones. This busy spot bred from 20 to 27 accidents every year for four years until traffic signals were installed and a one-way diagonal roadway was built. A third example is right in Pennsylvania.

In 1918, according to Mr. Evans, traffic accidents increased completely out of proportion at the intersection of Mt. Pleasant avenue and Michener street in Philadelphia. The intersection is a right-angled one, bordered on three corners by vacant lots with seven-foot-high embankments. All of the collisions were of a right-angle nature, occurring in the late afternoon or at night. A volume count showed approximately 3,000 vehicles using the intersection on an average day, each street carrying about 50 per cent. Merely "stopping" the traffic on one street in favor of the other was found to be the solution. "STOP" signs were erected against

ERIE CHURCH IN ORIGINAL SPOT

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 23.—(INS)—The first settlers reached Erie just before the turn of the 19th century and within a decade became a thriving little lakeside village.

Shortly thereafter, a pioneering Scot-Irishman, Rev. Robert Reid, established the first church.

In 1816 he established the United Presbyterian church and today, 130 years later—the church, many times remodeled, stands on the same site selected by the first pastor.

Aviation Union Conference Ends

Plans Are Made For Second Conference In Chicago In About Month

With a tentative working plan adopted for action in the aviation industry, the delegates of the United Auto Workers, CIO, adjourned Sunday after a two-day conference in The Castleton hotel. A second meeting will be called within a few weeks, probably in Chicago, it was said by William Stevenson, an international officer of the UAW.

The plan as outlined by Mr. Stevenson, is to integrate all local UAW-CIO unions in plants of the Aviation Corporation and later to demand a master contract for all the unions from the company. A working agreement has been reached with American Federation of Labor and American Confederated unions whereby representatives of the latter two will meet with the Aviation Council set up and will have voting power. In the event of strike action it is expected the three bodies will act in concert.

This was the first meeting of the newly formed Aviation Council and with preliminaries out of the way, definite organization action will probably come in Chicago.

New Strike Threat On Long Island

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Trainmen and ticket collectors of the Long Island railroad was scheduled to walk out on strike at one minute after midnight tonight. The work stoppage is expected to paralyze normal transportation for some 300,000 commuters carried daily by the road.

The walkout has been called tentatively by District 50 of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers to which the trainmen and ticket collectors belong.

A last minute meeting will be held in Washington today in an effort to avert the strike. A membership meeting of all the trainmen and collectors was called for 8 p. m. at which a final decision to walk out or remain on the job will be made. The strike involves an 18½ cent an hour wage increase but the main issues are said to be demands for a change in working hours and conditions.

Meat Shortage May Halt Mines

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Another soft coal shutdown was in the offing today—and this time the dispute centered around the exasperating meat shortage.

In short, the burly, begrimed miner, who earns his way while working in the bowels of the earth, has issued the following ultimatum: "No meat, no work."

John P. Busarello, president of the AFL-United Mine Workers of America, District No. 5, warned the coal mines administration that the walkout might take place this week—unless, of course, the administration can come up with a couple of steaks or chops.

Huge New Bank Opens In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The new billion dollar Mellon National Bank and Trust Company—the largest financial institution in Pennsylvania and the fifth largest in the world—opened its doors for business today.

The new bank resulted from a merger of the Union Trust Company and the Mellon National Bank, both age-old Pittsburgh concerns.

Today's bank merger marked the fifty-third year by American banks. It was the largest in the country since 1930 when the Chase National Bank and the Equitable Trust Company of New York were merged.

Campbell Soup Co. Head Passes Away

ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Arthur C. Dorrance, Sr., Campbell Soup Co. president since 1930, who died Saturday in his Ardmore home after a seven-week illness.

The 53-year-old former executive will be interred in the churchyard of the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr.

CHARGE CYCLIST FOR BEATING GIRL

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—(INS)—A McKees Rocks motorcyclist was taken into custody today on charges of allegedly accosting and beating a 15-year-old Pittsburgh school girl when the latter refused his invitation to "take a ride with him."

Police said Stephen Kira, 23, was being held for a morals court hearing after being arrested on the basis of a description given by his young victim, Anna Mae Ziringer.

Police said the girl suffered bruises about the face and had four teeth broken in her successful tussle to resist her youthful assailant.

Hints On Etiquette

If you wish to be strictly correct according to the rules of etiquette, you will break a baked potato in half with the fingers, scoop the inside out onto the plate and mix butter, salt and pepper in with a fork. However, now that dieticians have discovered that there are valuable food elements in the skin, you may cut or mash with fork (if the skin is not tough) season and eat all of it.

The practice of saluting a ship's quarter-deck is attributed to the old Roman custom of paying respect and obedience to pagan shrines carried on board.

STATE WOMEN TO ATTEND NATIONAL REPUBLICAN RALLY

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Forty-one Pennsylvania women were scheduled today to represent the Keystone state at the fourth biennial convention of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs at Philadelphia September 26 and 27.

Approximately 500 GOP women from 41 states were expected to attend the sessions which will be addressed by Gov. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, National Republican Chairman B. Carroll Reece and U. S. Sen. C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois.

Campaign issues and the part women voters will play in the fall elections will be stressed by the speakers. State delegates will include Mrs. Meade R. Detweiler of Bowman'sdale, president of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women; Mrs. Edna R. Carroll of Philadelphia, Welfare Secretary S. M. R. O'Hara of Wilkes-Barre, Rep. Jeannette M. Dye of Sandy Lake and Mrs. John Y. Huber of Haverford.

HOARDING CHARGED

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Towel and linen manufacturers were accused today of hoarding vast amounts of good grade towels and bed linens for higher prices.

William Sylvester, president of the Empire State Towel and Linen Service Bureau, made the charge and termed the present shortage "artificial."

EGG LAYING CONTEST
HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The 1946-47 egg laying contest will open near the state farm show building October 1. It was announced today by the department of agriculture.

Owners of hens must certify their entries have not been exposed to Newcastle disease, a poultry ailment reported in 22 states during the past year. The 1945-46 contest ended today.

JUVENILES CAUGHT
PILFERING GOODS

Two girls, each 10, and a brother of one of the girls, aged 16, were reportedly caught pilfering from a local store Saturday afternoon. The girls had $23.60, worth of articles in a shopping bag. The 16-year-old boy stood outside the door. Their parents were notified and they are to be questioned by Police Chief Robert D. Hanna late this week, he said, for the purpose of finding out how the girls became embroiled in pilfering.

Hospital Survey
Committee Spurs
Its State Program

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Adequate hospital services for all Pennsylvanians were a step nearer realization today as the committee appointed to survey facilities spurred its program.

Dr. Hubley H. Owen, director of medical services for the Philadelphia board of education, has been appointed by Gov. Edward Martin to direct the nine-member committee's study of facilities, organization and standards. Owen was granted a leave of absence by the city.

The committee's survey will be in line with the $1,225,000,000 hospital program approved by congress. Pennsylvania, if all requirements are met, will be entitled to $4,760,915 each year for the next five years for new non-profit hospitals and health centers. The state must pay two-thirds of the cost of construction.

In addition, Pennsylvania has received $209,203 for establishing a hospital program. The federal government has underwritten the cost of the survey, estimated at $209,243.

Portersville Will Fight Relocation
Of Highway Route

PORTERSVILLE, Sept. 23.—Citizens of this community have voiced their opinion, that they are definitely against the plans of the State Highway department, which if carried out, will cause Portersville to be by-passed by route 422, which now passes through the center of the town.

Objections to the proposed changes, were voiced at a meeting over the weekend, attended by State highway officials, State assemblymen and county officials. Among those attending were: T. C. Frame, chief engineer of the State Highway department and Ray Smock, State Highway secretary.

It is proposed to straighten the highway from Mt. Chestnut to the Dixie Inn and if constructed over the proposed route, the road would touch Portersville, but not pass through the borough.

Mr. Smock promised the local delegation that he would take the matter of their objection under advisement but assured the conferees that the road in all probability would not be reconstructed for a year or so at the earliest.

FORTY CENTS RICHER

SOMERSET, Pa.—(INS)—The Somerset county treasury was forty-cents richer today. The state mailed a check for that amount to the county for its share in the cost of mailing one military ballot in the may primary election.

Declares Medicine
Chosen As Field
Of Collectivists

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association today said that medicine "has been chosen as the field in which collectivists can most easily appeal to the people and break the front that defends democracy."

Fishbein added: "In the next Congress the conflict will be between those who wish to nationalize medicine, providing for the medical care of all people out of a central bureau in Washington, and those who propose to meet the needs of the nation for help where such needs have been shown, and to abstain from attempts to shake all of the people to meet the needs of a few."

Dr. Fishbein said that voluntary insurance to cover doctor and hospital bills was the "American way."

Library Announces Program For Forum

Schedule For Next Six Meetings
Of Great Books Forum
Is Drawn Up

After Tuesday evening, when the Great Books forum will discuss T. S. Eliot's poem "The Wasteland" under the direction of James Green, sessions of the forum will meet on the second and fourth Tuesday of every month in the assembly room of the Public Library.

Chief Librarian Alice Sterling has announced the following program and list of leaders for the next six meetings: September 24, "The Wasteland"; October 8, John Locke's "Civil Government", led by Joseph Leta; October 22, Anton Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard", led by Mrs. Edward Grotfend; November 12, Sigmund Freud's "Introduction to Psychoanalysis", led by Edward J. Sander; November 26, Robert M. Hutchins' "The Higher Learning in America", with Sally Norris as leader, and December 10, F. W. Nietzsche's "Beyond Good and Evil", with Brown Zahniser.

These meetings are a continuation of the series organized during the summer by Abe Krash, who has now returned to the University of Chicago to resume his graduate work. Those responsible for the schedule are hoping that interest in the series remains as keen throughout the winter as during the first six weeks.

Sun Spots Are Bothering Radio Communications

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Sun spots continued to leave radio communication between the United States and the Orient virtually blacked out today for the second successive day.

A press wireless spokesman said that only an occasional "weak signal" was being received from Tokyo and that other points were out of contact altogether.

RCA officials also said that they were out of contact with most points in the far Pacific.

Both firms agreed that the situation had not improved over Sunday when radio communications began to go bad.

A press wireless official said the so-called "sun spot" activity is in the polar region where a "strong magnetic field" interferes with passage of radio waves over the top of the globe.

PLAN LAND CONFERENCE

City council and William Nunn, representative of a client, will confer soon concerning the proposal of Nunn to sell to the city a lot about 40x100 parallel to Industrial street and the P.R.P. which would permit the city, if the lot was acquired, to remove a jog and provide an entrance to the American Can and New Castle Refractories company. The land price asked is $500.

Two-Year-Old Boy Is Bitten By Dog

Leonard Hughes, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hughes of Enon Valley, was severely bitten on the wrist and clawed about the shoulder by a dog Sunday evening. The attack occurred while the child was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Swan of the Ellwood road.

Taken to a local doctor for treatment, the wounds were cauterized, and the child was permitted to return home. The dog was later destroyed.

CANCEL REGISTRATION

Upon advice of Solicitor Robert McKimley White, council today instructed the city recorder of deeds to revoke the registration in the name of Victor Cubellis of a lot in Taylor street, which the county sold to Cubellis. White maintained the lot is used for municipal purposes and the county had no legal right to sell it.

"We can borrow the money we need on our inventory"

PRESIDENT: Just what plan did you have in mind, Jones?

TREASURER: I'd suggest a Lawrence Savings & Trust Co. Commodity Loan, sir. It's available through "field warehousing". A field warehouse is set up on our premises so that the material we need for manufacturing or shipment is readily available any time.

PRESIDENT: I see. We use our inventory for collateral.

TREASURER: Right. And it's pledged to the bank on field warehouse receipts.

PRESIDENT: Gentleman, I understand that many firms are making use of this method of financing to obtain ready cash for discounting bills and expanding sales. It seems to me an excellent way to get the capital we need to open new territories. Let's do it!

Business executives are cordially invited to inquire about our Commodity Loan Service.

Spectacular Shooting Star Display Forecast

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—The possibility that one or all of the nights of October 8, 9 and 10 will bring the most spectacular shower of shooting stars this country has seen since 1872, led the American Meteor Society today to ask the aid of interested observers in compiling data on the stream.

According to Dr. Charles P. Olivier, president of the society and professor of astronomy at the University of Pennsylvania, the display would be provided by meteors which follow the orbit of Giacobini-Zinner's comet and are believed to be debris from the comet's nucleus.

The comet itself cannot be seen without a telescope, but on October 9, 1933, the most recent occasion upon which it was in a favorable position to provide celestial fireworks for observers, it is credited with having produced an exceptionally brilliant meteor display visible over Europe.

The display in 1933, when observers at Maia counted 22,500 meteors in five hours, could not be seen in this country because the earth had passed through the meteor stream before darkness came to North America. This year, however, there is ground for hope that observers here may have better luck.

May Furnish Meteors

"Meteors are notoriously erratic in behavior and no positive predictions can be made, but one of all of the three nights of October 8, 9 and 10 should furnish many meteors, with October 9 as the most likely date for the greatest display," Dr. Olivier states.

"The fact that the earth will be only 131,000 miles from the orbit traveled by the comet, as compared with 500,000 miles in 1933, adds to the possibility of an unusually spectacular shower this year."

For observers in the eastern half of this country another favorable circumstance is that the meteor shower, if it appears, should reach its height at about 9:30 p. m. eastern standard time.

Large Numbers Visible

"At that hour the radiant point of the meteors, which is in the constellation Draco, will be high in the northwestern sky. Although bright moonlight will prevent observers from seeing the faintest meteors, large numbers of brilliant ones should be visible."

Volunteer observers are urged by Dr. Olivier to count the meteors seen during every half hour on October 8, 9, and 10, being careful to record the exact hour and minute at which they begin and end each half-hour count and to describe the condition of the sky.

Reports on observations, when sent to the American Meteor Society's headquarters at the Flower Observatory of the University of Pennsylvania, Highland Park, Upper Merion, Pa., will aid the society in its research program, he pointed out.

Army May Recall 1000 Former Nurses

Grave Shortage Of Hospital Help May Result In Nurses Being Recalled To Duty

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 23.—One thousand former Army nurses are needed to fill existing vacancies, the surgeon general announced.

Eligible for recall to active duty are former members of the Army Nurse Corps who are unmarried and have no dependents under 14 years of age. Applicants must sign Category I or Category VIII statements, electing to remain in the army for a period of two years or for an unlimited length of time. This is necessitated by the anticipated fixing of overseas tours of duty at 18 months.

Legislation was introduced into the 79th Congress just prior to adjournment giving permanent status as officers to army nurses. No new appointments are being made in the regular Army Nurse Corps pending congressional action.

Applications for extended active duty are available at army recruiting stations and military headquarters throughout Western Pennsylvania.

Tomato Blight Costly In State

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Tomato blight has caused a loss of 50 per cent of the tomato crop in northwestern Pennsylvania, according to an estimate by County Agent Paul S. Crossman of Erie.

Crossman said that tomato blight can probably be found in every county.

He advised growers to spray or dust their crop whether or not blight is present if they want to harvest soon. He said a few rainy days in regions where blight is present will cause complete loss of the crop.

Crossman said that blight spreads like wild-fire in damp weather and dust or spray applications should be repeated weekly.

Nag Impounded, Youth Is Jailed

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 23.—(INS)—You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink.

That was the conclusion reached today by Eugene Creech, 19, in city prison while he awaited a police court hearing on an intoxication charge.

Creech became entangled with the law Saturday night when he attempted to ride what he said was a thirsty steed, named "Sunny Boy," into several Oakland bars.

The horseman told protesting bartenders:

"Sunny boy wants a drink. He needs one."

Police broke up the act by escorting "Sunny Boy" to the city pound and Creech to jail.

Will Drop Charges Against Daughter

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The Dowager Marchioness of Townshend indicated today that she wanted to drop charges against her daughter of stealing household linen and a refrigerator from a London apartment.

When the daughter, Lady Elizabeth White, and a Major Walsh were arraigned on the charges the court remanded them in bail for two weeks.

Then the marchioness appeared to relent and indicated she wanted to skip the whole business.

The items involved in the charge were said to be worth $1,600.

Coroner Having Inquest Today

Dr. T. F. Nugent, county coroner, is conducting an inquest this afternoon in the office of Alderman James C. Brice, into the circumstances of the auto collision at the Harlansburg intersection, on September 10, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Aletha Davis, of R. D. 1, West.

Mrs. Davis was a passenger in the automobile of her husband, J. Raymond Davis, which was struck by a car driven by Calvin W. Gibb, of Barnsdale, Okla., according to the report received by Coroner Nugent.

Iranian Tribesmen Reported In Revolt

—(INS)—Iranian tribesmen were reported today to be in revolt against the Tehran government.

Heavily armed tribesmen who descended from mountain camps were said to have surrounded the Persian gulf port of Bushire and occupied three localities between Bushire and Shiraz, capital of Fars, 110 miles northeast of Bushire.

The tribesmen reportedly disarmed the local security forces.

Premier Ahmed Ghassem of Iran reportedly summoned his council of ministers immediately following reports that the tribesmen, known as Quashqais, had staged a revolt similar to that which they carried out in 1943.

G. I's Ordered
To 'Spruce Up'

Gen. Eisenhower Issues Order To Halt Slouchy Appearance Of Service Men

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower wagged a reproving finger at slouchy G.I.'s today, telling them to spruce up—or else.

The army chief of staff, backed by Secretary of War Patterson, took the action in an official war department document prepared for distribution to all commands.

Eisenhower declared that "the appearance of some military personnel does not meet the standards of the service, and will be improved without delay."

He served notice that disciplinary action will be taken against soldiers reported for failure to comply with uniform regulations, asserting:

"It is the responsibility of every officer, whether on duty or leave, to see that all military personnel represent the required neat and soldierly appearance."

Patterson, in prompting the reprimand, obviously was more than a little irked that after his action last spring to eliminate the "sad sack" appearance from the army some G.I.'s have clung to it.

At the time Patterson directed that the army call in uniforms a poor fit and that new recruits step out of reception centers as trim, well-tailored soldiers proud of the clothing they wear.

Eisenhower declared that "the American people have a right to be proud of the members of their armed forces." He observed that an untidy or improperly dressed soldier "neither instills nor evokes pride."

The general appealed to G.I. pride, reminding them:

"A short time ago, soldiers wearing the uniform of the army of the United States were instrumental in winning a long and difficult war."

Then he laid down the law: The wearing of incomplete uniforms or mixed summer and winter clothing and of "dirty and disheveled" uniforms will not be tolerated.

"Military personnel in towns and on public carriers will observe the same standards of neatness and soldierly appearance as are required on a military installation."

They may remove the blouse or battle jacket in the car in which their seat is located, but not in dining, lounge or club cars.

Commanders of all echelons will take action to insure that these regulations are complied with.

July-August ReportAmericanization Board Hears Of Work Accomplished During Meeting At Y.M.C.A.

Miss Christine Butler, worker at the Neighborhood House on East Long avenue, presented a report of the work accomplished at the South Side youth institution during the regular meeting of the Americanization board, representatives of the Neighborhood House, which was held at the Y. M. C. A. during the week.

In her recapitulation of the work accomplished, Miss Butler reported that 71 calls were made, with classes continuing through the summer months, which included evangelism, English and the Sunday school. Classes were held two nights a week.

Vacation School Successful

Troop school and Daily Vacation Bible school, held from June 11 to July 5, was reported to the board to be very successful. The principal of the school was Miss Jean Butler, with the following teachers assisting: Mrs. Kenneth Lutz, Mrs. Selma Reneker, Mrs. William Floyd, Christine Butler, Selma Joseph, Eleanor Dieckel and Kalee Csiró.

Enrolled in the school were 112, with 95 coming three or more days. Forty-six diplomas and 24 commissions were given; 23 boys and girls accepted Christ as Saviour; 2,000 tracts were given out and four New Testaments were given away.

Sunday School Picnic

One of the happiest days of the Neighborhood House was the Sunday school picnic on July 2, it was reported. The Sunday school members assembled at Cascade park, with the superintendent, Jay Alsworth, in charge. The afternoon was spent in enjoying the park amusements, followed by a sumptuous meal in the grove.

School teachers, which include members of the board, assisted by girls in Mrs. Goldie Koonce's class, helped to make the outing successful for the 98 boys and girls present. Responsible for the good time were Jesse Kerr, J. D. Reebel, Sam McGoun, members of First U. P. Sunday school and Axel's Market.

Evangelism classes enjoyed their picnic at the park in August, with the following committee in charge: Mrs. Sylvia Jacob, Mrs. Jennie Holvers, Mrs. June Austin, Selma Joseph and Eleanor Dieckel. 53 were present on the occasion.

A class in English for Greek young people continued throughout the summer, meeting two evenings a week. A small circulating library for the boys and girls in charge of Mrs. Sylvia Jacob is in operation.

Donors Reported

Donors for the period to the Neighborhood House included: Sunday school papers, First Methodist, through Mrs. Sam McGoun and Mrs. Walter Reneker; books and magazines, Mrs. Laura Raney; magazines, Misses Margaret and Edna Pringle; Sunday school papers from Central Presbyterian Sunday school by Mrs. James Hinkson.

Two Bibles were given away, six New Testaments and 10 copies of the Gospel of John in Italian.

Vegetarians Are Much Aroused By Shortage Of Meat

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Vegetarians of all people are raising a hub about the meat famine.

While they don't actually pine for the savory meat dishes that have virtually disappeared, their squawk is that the shortage is crowding them out of their eating places.

This happened when non-vegetarians, seeking meat, stumbled upon the "health-food" restaurants which have been employing a mind-over-matter subterfuge for years—strictly to keep the vegetarians coming regularly.

High on the list of items at a vegetarian restaurant are such camouflaged dishes as "soyburgers," cholepts, steaklets, and mock chicken.

Local Delegates
At Philadelphia

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Tate, of 207 Fairmont avenue, left Saturday evening to attend the General Assembly of the M. B. A. of the Pennsylvania Railroad, of which Mr. Tate is a director. The convention will be in assembly until Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tate plan to remain in the East for a few days' vacationing, before returning to their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Francis, of 429 Edgewood avenue, have registered at the Hotel Ben Franklin in Philadelphia, and will be in attendance at the M. B. A. convention. Mr. Francis is a delegate of the local M. B. A. 55 of New Castle.

We realize that this is a progressive age, but so far, thank goodness, we haven't seen grandma out driving one of those motorized scooters.

We believe no gasoline,

equal the incomparable
smoothness of Dynafuel

HERE'S WHY: ALL gasolines (including Sunoco Dynafuel) are composed of "light" and "heavy" molecules. As the gasoline goes into the cylinders from the carburetor, some of the "heavy" molecules separate from the rest of the gasoline and go to certain cylinders which get most of the "heavy" molecules, while other cylinders get mostly "light" molecules.

OTHER
GASOLINES

IN MOST OTHER GASOLINES the "heavy" molecules are low in octane quality... but the "light" molecules are high octane. The cylinders receiving the low grade "heavy" molecules do not receive the same high knockless quality as other cylinders.

SUNOCO
DYNAFUEL

IN SUNOCO DYNAFUEL, all molecules, both "heavy" and "light" deliver equally high octane power. No matter whether a cylinder receives "light" or "heavy" molecules that cylinder and all cylinders receive uniformly high knockless quality.

MOVIE FIGHTS ARE REAL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—(INS)—If you think those movie fights are all phoney, then step right up here beside Larry Blake and your reporter today and watch Larry get booted in the eye by proxy.

It's a blood-and-thunder scene from Sol Wurtzel's "Blacklash," in which Larry has the leading role as a two-fisted detective—and rather more fittingly than most screen assistants since Larry's cousin is that real life, two-fisted detective from New York, Johnny Broderick.

A one-time Brooklyn dockworker, Larry is resuming his screen career after wartime duty in the navy aboard the super battlewagon U.S.S. Iowa, and isn't forgetting that his buddies need work like everyone else. That's why his double in this scene is Chunky Cy Malis, a coast guardsmen who was assigned to the navy on sub chaser duty.

Moreover, Cy's opponent in the rough and tumble fistfight is another young vet, Fenton Taylor, late of the U. S. Marines.

Punches Fly

Malis, in Larry's spot, is tackled by Taylor and those just-miss punches are tossed right and left. Experts in their trade, they whisper to each other just what's coming next—but the sensitive microphone picks up the words and the director orders them to do it over, but without conversation, please.

The battle looks about the same, and certainly not soft. Out to go and die for dear old Wurtzel, they don't say a word until after the

with the dukes, and is out of the battle simply because the studio can't risk production delays from injuries.

Would Fight One Guy

"In fact," says Larry, "there is one guy I would even like to fight. In person, if I'm out of town, I'd come back to sock him. That's Fritz Weidemann, the former German consul."

This is a matter of deep feeling with Larry. In his first picture, Erich Remarque's "The Road Back" in 1936, Larry originally was cast as a German officer—and played the role so well in tests that Weidemann succeeded in having him ousted from the part and re-cast as a pacifist.

"One of my proudest possessions is a registered letter from the German consulate, telling me they would bar the film from Germany if I played that part."

And despite roles since on his upward climb in Hollywood in such films as "The Magnificent Doll," "The Beginning or the End," and "Deadline for Murder," Larry still figures he has a piece of unfinished "Business" from "The Road Back."

"That," he says, "is to take a sock at Weidemann. I tell you again: If I'm out of town, I'll come back."

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Here's how tough the meat shortage is in Pittsburgh:

Allegedly hungry thieves broke into a paint shed and stole Fred Johnson's pet albino rabbit.

Police were at a loss, however, to explain why the thieves also took 22 gallons of red paint and a couple of cans of putty.

Curbs On Science And Government Urged By Bishop

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Curbs on science and government were urged today by the Most Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, in order to further man's spiritual freedom. The prelate opened Princeton's bi-centennial celebration with a sermon in the university chapel warning that "it is only too clear that the use of scientific knowledge must be governed by something other than its own possibilities." Concerning government, he pointed out that "social planning is indeed a necessity in the conditions of this modern world (but) any such planning involves compulsion, the use of governmental power over men to secure the desired social ends." He viewed this as a "threat to man himself, and imperils his spiritual freedom unless it is restrained and regulated by a true belief in the nature and end of man, unless men themselves can shape its use and remain masters of their souls." More than 350 billion packages of cigarettes were produced in the United States last year.

Plan To Develop Plane With Speed Over 1,000 M.P.H.

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)
 LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Sept. 22.—Government sponsored aeronautical research has been given the go-ahead of a full-scale supersonic development program.

Closely interlocked with the vast army air forces development center at Wright Field, the Langley Field laboratories of the national advisory committee for aeronautics has embarked on a major schedule of research and production in the hitherto unknown "beyond compressibility" realm of aviation. Over 1000 M. P. H. Speed?

The aeronautics committee project is expected to become a cornerstone of the plan to develop craft with speeds in excess of 1,000 miles an hour, it is backed by government provided laboratories valued at more than eighty-five million dollars and with a total research personnel of nearly 6,000 experts.

Scale model aircraft under study at Langley Field already are being subjected to wind tunnel tests at speeds of more than 900 miles an hour. The whole tendency in design is toward sweepback winged planes capable of withstanding the tremendous pressure of beyond-compressibility flight.

Experiments Revealed
 Langley researchers threw open only a small portion of their laboratory experiments to the view of aviation manufacturers and writers this week-end. They revealed that the bulk of the aeronautics committee budget for coming years has been allocated to perfecting supersonic and transonic type aircraft and airborne weapons.

Something new designs are under consideration, it was learned. Every conceivable type of pressure and shock test is being weighed as a guide to future production demands. The new designs—under study as scale-model type craft—include folding-wing style airplanes for supersonic use. These would take-off much the same as a normal plane but on reaching high subsonic speeds, the wings would automatically retract and the plane slipstream through the air as a near-projectile.

On dropping below the supersonic, wings would come out again and the plane could land as a conventional aircraft.

Frances Willard W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Fred Donaldson was hostess to the Frances Willard group, in the parlors of the Central Presbyterian church, Friday evening.

Mrs. C. N. Moore, vice president, called the meeting to order in the absence of Mrs. C. E. Aiken.

Mrs. Oscar Rhodes conducted devotional using 2nd Peter as foundation of an inspiring talk. The prayer of Mrs. Rhodes and singing "The Morning Light Is Breaking" closed worship period.

Mrs. Moore then presented the newly elected president, Miss Laura Bell, by whom the business meeting was conducted. Roll call was answered by a temperance thought or a verse of scripture. Interesting reports were given by department directors of good work done during past year. An article entitled "Beer or Bibles" by Earl E. Rowell, Southern California secretary of American Bible society, was read by Mrs. G. J. Forrest. Mrs. T. A. Preston gave a reading from Union Signal on "Intemperance".

Department directors for the ensuing year were named. Mrs. C. N. Moore, religious education and spiritual life. Mrs. J. E. Rodgers, interracial work. Miss Anna Dods, alcohol education. Mrs. G. J. Forrest, flower mission. Mrs. Oscar Rhodes, legislation and citizenship. Mrs. M. D. Allen, temperance and mission. Mrs. J. B. McClaren, union signal. Mrs. Clara Williams, ameth-

Pymatuning Is Providing Water

Dam On Upper Shenango Is Big Aid During Long Dry Spell In Area

SHARON, Sept. 23.—Thousands of gallons of water are flowing daily through the gates of Pymatuning dam into the Shenango river to maintain a necessary water supply for industries along the river valley and to New Castle.

As this year's summer months are the driest in several years, Pymatuning reservoir is being called upon to furnish more water than at any time since it was placed in operation 12 years ago.

The reservoir is meeting the need and without any serious effect on its huge water storage and shore lines.

Only when the automatic recording machine at Sharpsville shows enough water is being carried into the Shenango from the river's watershed below the dam will the gates be closed and preparations be made for the 15-mile reservoir to handle spring rains and do its part in averting floods.

Industries Have No Worry
Dry seasons during the last 12 years have been a far cry for Shenango industries from the years before the reservoir was built. Previous to 1934, industries found it necessary nearly every year to close down during the dry season.

Today, the level of the water at Sharon is 3.96 feet, more than enough to assure all industries of ample water supply. In the first year of Pymatuning, 1934, the reading was 2.45 feet while in 1940 it was 3.42.

Readings also show how dangerously low the water supply became in days before the dam. In 1923 the level was 2.00 feet. Three years later it was 1.90, while in 1933 it had dropped to 1.85 feet.

Report 5,000,000 Pounds Of Butter Stored In State

Removal Of OPA Controls Credited For Sharp Rise In Storage Warehouses

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—(INS)—The Department of Agriculture reported today that there were approximately 5,000,000 pounds of creamery butter stored in Pennsylvania cold storage warehouses compared with about 1,000,000 pounds May 1.

Removal of O. P. A. controls June 30 was credited for the sharp increase by the department.

On September 1, the department said, there were 4,953,000 pounds of butter stored while an increase was noted during the past few weeks.

Poultry holdings reached 8,810,000 pounds September 1 compared with approximately 16,500,000 pounds March 1 and 8,476,000 pounds July 1, it was added. The report stated:

"Nationally, dressed poultry in cold storage warehouses advanced about 30,000,000 pounds between July 1 and the first of this month, present holdings totaling 264,202,000 pounds. Butter in the nation's storage plants advanced in the same period from 49,719,000 pounds to 84,360,000 pounds.

"Other dairy products in Pennsylvania cold storage September 1 included: fluid cream, 5,433,000 pounds, an increase of about 600,000 since July 1; plastic cream, 1,615,000 pounds, an advance of about 200,000 pounds; American cheese, 1,296,000 pounds, about the same as July 1; shell eggs, 434,000 cases of 30 dozen each, a drop of about 100,000; frozen eggs, 9,272,000 pounds, a decline of about 800,000 pounds.

"National holdings of American cheese totaled 126,185,000 pounds, an advance of about 17,000,000 since July 1 and nearly 5,700,000 more than on August 1."

DEFENSE TO REST IN HEADLEE CASE

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 23.—(INS)—The defense was expected to rest its case today in the trial of William Headlee, 22, Pacific war veteran, charged with the assault slaying of Mrs. Harriet Walker, 78, a Waynesburg widow.

The youthful defendant took the stand in his own defense over the week-end and testified that his mind went blank on the night he allegedly criminally assaulted and stabbed the elderly woman.

The case probably will be handed to the jury tomorrow or Wednesday.

FIRST NAME CALLING

"Could it be that I am old-fashioned? My daughter says I am because I insist on calling acquaintances 'Mr. and Mrs.' until they reach the status of friends. Just when is it proper to start first-name calling?"

Answer: It all depends upon the circle in which you travel. Among the young, "sophisticated" people call one another by their first names sooner than do the older, more conservative.

In small towns and communities, next door neighbors go on indefinitely with their "Mr. and Mrs." while cosmopolitans usually get to the "Mary and John" stage shortly after their first exchange of calls. An exception is older people who frequently avoid such familiarity until they have known one another for a long while.

If you have become socially acceptable to a group (however impressive to you) who call one another "Bill and Jane," you may join in the customary procedure and do likewise. It would sound odd, indeed, after a few such meetings for you to continue calling them by their last names.

However, do not take these liberties with older women unless requested to do so. Some older women feel flattered when the younger element call them by their Christian names. They consider it an admission of equality of age. But make it a rule to know your woman before taking the plunge.

As a general rule, "Miss," "Mr." or "Mrs." prevail in business; but in some large offices, employees on an equal footing use first names. Executives are usually given the dignity of "Mr." during business hours even by subordinates who know them socially and call them "John" outside of office. The modern technique of informal introductions among the young is "Mary Smith," this is John Jones" rather than "Miss Smith—Mr. Jones" and John usually breaks the ice by this acknowledgment—"I'm delighted to know you, Mary."

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

AMBRIDGE — One particular automobile accident will linger long in the memories of Ambridge residents. The casualties were two 1947 model cars being towed to a dealer.

Laundry Service - Not Much Better

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—(INS)—You may have non-willing collars on your shirts pretty soon, and wearing apparel that can withstand cigarette burns, but it will be a long while before you can get your laundry back the same week you send it.

That's the prediction of George H. Johnson, general manager of the American Institute of Laundering, which opened its 59th annual convention in St. Louis today.

Johnson said the present labor shortage is blocking a return to the peacetime standards of quick laundering service. He pointed out that commercial laundries last year handled 21,000,000,000 pieces of clothing, and 1946 is expected to top this record.

Plan To Revise Underwriter Laws

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—(INS)—State Insurance Commissioner Gree L. Neel told the insurance buyers of Pittsburgh today that the General Assembly would revise laws governing underwriters during the 1947 session opening in January.

Neel pointed out that certain changes were mandatory under federal statutes stemming from a U. S. Supreme Court decision in 1944 which branded insurance as commerce and subject to interstate control. Congress decided to permit states to supervise the business, he added.

Rate supervisory laws would be enacted, Neel said, along with changes in procedures.

The new insurance code, Neel predicted, would benefit policyholders.

Slightly Hurt In Ellwood Road Mishap

Fred Fischer, rear 424 Pittsburgh Circle, Ellwood City, at 7 p. m. Sunday sustained body bruises and a dislocated finger and was treated by Ellwood City physician, the result of an auto accident three miles beyond the New Castle line on the Ellwood City highway, state police reported today.

Samuel T. Caruso, 503 Laiton street, this city, drove a car and attempted to turn left into a private driveway. Mike Kasper, Ellwood City R. D. 1, operated a car in the rear of Caruso's and a rear end collision occurred.

Both drivers differed as to how the accident occurred.

Fischer was an occupant of Kasper's auto.

St. Joseph's Group Conducts Meeting

Plans Under Way For Halloween Party To Be Enjoyed In October

Regular meeting of the Young Ladies Sodality of St. Joseph's church was held Thursday, September 19, 1946 in the basement of the church.

The meeting was opened by prayer led by Rev. Fr. John M. Unger, followed by the hymn, "For Christ the King."

Reports of the various committees were given. Our Lady's committee chairlady, Jean Tammelleo, started a living rosary for the month of October, which is the month of the Holy Rosary. A religious quiz was held by the apostolic chairlady, Mary Helbley, with a prize going to the winner, Eleanor Klaber.

Plans and suggestions were then made for a halloween party. No definite plans have been made as yet.

An open floor discussion was then held on any questions the sodalists might have on any subject. The meeting was then closed with prayer led by Father Unger and the hymn "Mother Beloved."

MEDIA — Guard Billy Paul thought he had seen just about everything happen in the county court house during his long tenure but he received a sharp job today when he looked into a crowded court room and spied an anxious mother changing her baby's diaper.

Noted Leaders To Speak Here At Convention

Outstanding Speakers On Program For State S. S. Convention In October

The 84th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Christian Education, incorporated as the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, will meet in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, New Castle, October 8-11.

Church school workers, officers of county and district units of the Pennsylvania Council of Christian Education will come from all parts of Pennsylvania to attend this convention.

Outstanding church leaders have been secured as speakers for the convention. Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, executive secretary of the American Committee for the World Council of Churches, will deliver the address on Tuesday night.

The convention sermon will be delivered by Dr. Lloyd C. Wicke, minister of the Mount Lebanon Methodist church, Pittsburgh, on Wednesday morning.

On Wednesday night a special youth emphasis service will be held, when Miss Cleo Carson and Clark Fleming will deliver brief addresses. The principal address on Wednesday evening will be delivered by Dr. Ruth I. Seabury, educational secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

On Thursday afternoon at 4:15 a fellowship tea will be held in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Ivan M. Gould and Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Sassaman. Dr. Gould is the executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Council of Christian Education and of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, and Mr. Sassaman is the associate general secretary for the Pennsylvania Council of Christian Education.

On Friday afternoon the closing address will be delivered by Dr. William Barrow Pugh, stated clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. Special divisional conferences will be held in the various churches of the city, the Highland United Presbyterian church, First Presbyterian church, First Methodist church, First Baptist church, St. Paul's Lutheran church and Trinity Episcopal church. The headquarters of the convention will be the Scottish Rite Cathedral and The Castleton hotel.

'Life With Father' Here, October 23

Will Be Presented For Lions Club
Fund For Aid Of Local Blind Persons

One of Broadway's biggest hit shows will come to New Castle on Wednesday, October 23, when the current favorite "Life With Father" plays at the Cathedral auditorium. The show, played by a New York cast with Brandon Peters in the leading role, comes here under the auspices of the New Castle Lions club, the net proceeds to be for the benefit of the club's blind fund.

The road tour of this cast is being conducted by special arrangement with Oscar Serlin, the original producer, under a plan by which outstanding dramatic productions will be played throughout the country by first-class talent. The success of the plan this year will, it is expected, assure an annual tour of this kind to those communities evidencing an interest in stage plays.

The show, "Life With Father", is one of the all-time comedy hits of the American stage. It has been playing in New York since 1939, and nine touring companies have crisscrossed the country in the past seven years to accommodate the thousands of audiences who wanted to laugh at this funny and endearing picture of that great institution, the American family.

Announcement will be made in a few days as to ticket arrangements.

TREAT SEED TO CONTROL STINKING SMUT OF WHEAT

Stinking smut of wheat ruined the crop for many Pennsylvania farmers this year. Some fields had an average of 60 per cent of the heads infected by the smut, which causes a dust with a fishy odor at harvest time.

All Lawrence County farmers should be on guard against the disease this year. Heavily infected wheat should not be used for planting, and all seed not known to be free should be treated.

An organic mercury dust, such as New Improved Mercosan, is recommended, at the rate of one-half ounce to the bushel. The dust is best applied to the seed in a rotating drum, or a home-made seed-treater. Plans for such a treater can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Building, however, where treaters are not available, the shovel method of treatment may be used.

Best results are obtained where the seed is treated a week or more before planting. The seed treatment also controls other seedborne organisms and often promotes plant growth.

Garden Notes

Do a general cleanup job in the border. Cut down all dead and dying plants and dispose of them by burning. Phlox and most perennials should be cut down to the ground.

New plants of rhubarb can be set out now. Old plants can be divided at this time. Established clumps should be given a heavy mulch of manure.

You can prolong the flowering of "mums" for several weeks if you will take the time to protect them from frosts. Cover at night, remove during the day.

Peonies and most of the perennials may be moved as long as the weather does not get too cold and the ground remains in good condition.

If you have ordered roses for fall planting, start preparing the bed now. Dig it deep and enrich the layers of soil with old manure and peat moss. Let it settle well before planting.

Changes in the perennial border should be made now. This gives the newly set roots a chance to dig in their new location before the ground freezes.
